JIM SHAW'S STOCK FIRM FAILS, $11,000,000 CRASH

FOUR ARE KILLED IN AUTO CRASHES

Four persons are dead, one is dying and four others are recovering from injuries as result of automobile accidents in Boston and vicinity the past twenty-four hours.

Three of the crashes were in the city proper. The fourth was at "Dead Man's Curve," Mansfield Corner, Lynnfield, where another fatality occurred less than a fortnight ago.

The dead:

RICHARD HANLEY, twenty-five, of No. 11 Fenwood road, Roxbury, killed on Tremont street, between West and Mason streets.

JAMES RENDONE, ten, of No. 9 Fenton street, Dorchester, run over on Dorchester avenue, near Greenwich street.

HARRIET LITTELL, forty-five, of No. 142 Irving street, Watertown, run over by a truck at Brookline avenue, near the Fenway, Back Bay, while boarding a street car.

THOMAS WELLWOOD, thirty-eight, of No. 24½ Mishawum road, Woburn, crushed beneath a mo-

HAYES' ARREST, SUSPENSION SOUGHT IN TWO REQUESTS

A warrant for the arrest of Beverly's "shooting police chief" on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was sought today in Salem District Court by State Officer William E. Murray at direction of District Attorney William G. Clark of Essex County.

This action resulted from the shooting of Miss Evelyn Spinney and John F. Winston, Lynn High School students, by Chief John E. Hayes, when the driver of the machine they were riding in failed to stop at his order.

Previous to the appearance of Murray in court the district attorney held a conference with Mayor Whittemore of Beverly at which he ordered that Hayes be suspended at once pending further investigation.

District Attorney Clark issued a statement in which he said he did not wish to enter into Beverly political fights, but felt "it is a matter of public policy that the chief should be suspended."

The district attorney declared that "Chief Hayes failed to exercise proper judgment in the use of his revolver."

State Officer Murray filed a report with District Attorney Clark prior to his conference with Mayor Whittemore, who said he would make known his decision this afternoon.

This report was based partly on statements made by the wounded students and Frank Boyle, Jr., driver of the machine and Alvin Hoff, gate tender near the scene of the shooting who was a witness.

SEVEN ARTS WIN IN COURT; JUDGE'S RULING FAVORS GIRL

RECEIPTS FROM "LIZA" ENJOINED BY COURT

The Bon-Bon Buddy, Inc., musical comedy company, was made the defendant today in suit filed in Superior Court by Moceo Pinkard of New York, song writer, in which he alleges violation of the terms of an agreement regarding the sale of the lyric, "Liza."

Judge Sanderson today enjoined the Shubert Theatrical Company from allowing any of the proprietors of the musical comedy company from being taken from the Wilbur Theatre where "Liza" is being sung, and he also ordered the theatrical company to pay no more money to the Bon-Bon Buddy, Inc. Pinkard charged that he was to receive a commission of 2 per cent. on all receipts at the box office where the musical comedy was played. This agreement, he charges, has not been carried out by the defendants.

U. S. TENNIS STARS TWO-TIME WINNERS

Boykenham, Eng., June 16.—(AP)—William M. Johnston, American star, won the Kent Lawn Tennis Championship today by defeating D. M. Craig in the straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, won in the women's singles, defeating Mrs. Satterthwaite, British star, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

CAST-OFF PITCHER EQUALS MATTY'S MARK

New Orleans, June 16.—George Winn, left handed pitcher, recently sent to the New Orleans Southern Association Club by Cleveland, threw only sixty balls to the fifty Nashville batters to face him here yesterday and equalled Christy Mathewson's control record.

BAY STATE PROMOTER PARTNER

Old New York Concern Hopes to Pay All Debts in Financial Crash

New York, June 16.—Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, failed today.

The firm was admitted to the exchange, March 28, 1895, and did a large business between this country and Germany. They also engaged extensively in commercial investments, and foreign exchange.

One of the partners in the firm is James F. Shaw, ex-member of the Bay State Senate and prominent in Bay State politics for twenty years.

A member of the firm said:

"For the protection of all our creditors we have consented to appointment of a receiver for our firm which has had an honorable career for more than 70 years. "It will be found that all securities entrusted to our care are intact and we hope to effect satisfactory settlement with our creditors and depositors at the earliest possible date. We hope to pay all we owe."

The petition estimated liabilities at $11,000,000, with assets in securities of about the same amount. Middleton S. Borland was appointed receiver under a bond of $50,000.

The firm was most active in oil securities, recent weakness of which was attributed to heavy selling for its account. These stocks showed a better tone after announcement of the failure.

Members of the firm are: Mrs. Mary L. W. Knauth, Oscar L. Gubleman, Rollni C. Newton, James F. Shaw, Herbert B. Smithers, John R. Hall and Theodore W. Knauth.

James F. Shaw, former State senator and street railway promoter, has been in the spotlight off and on for the past twenty years.

Lining up with his father, E. F. Shaw, former State treasurer, he first gained recognition when the two opposed the candidacy of Congressman Augustus P. Gardiner. This led to the younger man riding into the State Senate on the votes of insurgents rebelling against Gardner.

Then, as promoter of street railways, he and his father constructed more than $15,000,000 worth of

DEMPSEY'S BOUT IS SAVED; $100,000 FINALLY GARNERED

Great Falls, Mont., June 8 (AP).—The Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont., July 4, was saved from financial failure early today when President G. H. Stanton, of the Stanton Trust and Savings Bank advanced $50,000 and pledges were made for the other $50,00 to make up the $100,000 installment due Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey.

Kearns agreed to accept the money at 4 p. m. today. The money was raised after an all-day session that lasted until after midnight.

CROWD ATTACKS LYNN DRIVER WHOSE AUTO HURTS CHILD

An automobile driven by Michael Cashman, No. 3 Walton street, Lynn, careened up over the curbstone onto the sidewalk on Shepard street in that city today, injuring one child while a score of other children fled screaming. The machine rammed the house at No. 76 Shepard street and stopped.

The street is in a thickly populated district and an angry crowd of men and women of a half dozen races set upon Cashman. They were about to pull him from his seat when two patrolmen appeared. According to the officers, Cashman would have suffered but for their arrival.

Cashman was booked on the charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and without a license.

The injured child, Beatrice, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaide Valoudis, was taken to a hospital. Her injuries are not serious.

MOVIE ACTRESS ENDS LIFE; "TOO TIRED," SO TAKES GAS

Los Angeles, June 16.—Evelyn Nelson, twenty-three-year-old film actress, who had played in comedy roles, was found dead in a gas filled room in her home by her mother, Mrs. George P. Nelson, according to a report made to the police late last night.

Two notes were found in the room, the police said, one of which stated she intended to end her life because she was tired."

chine at "Dead Mans Curve," Lynnfield.

DYING:

ANNE WELLWOOD, eight, whose skull was fractured when pinioned under wreckage with her father, At Lynn Hospital.

INJURED:

EDWARD F. KENNEDY, twenty-six, of No. 245½ Roxbury street, Roxbury, companion of Hanley, under treatment at Haymarket Relief Hospital for injuries of the head.

FRANCIS DWYER, twenty-four, of No. 111 Pond avenue, Brookline, also a companion of Hanley, at Haymarket Relief Hospital suffering injuries of the head, thigh and body.

Hanley was fatally injured when the steel hook on the end of a ladder on an Edison Light Company truck pierced his skull as the machine he was riding in collided with the service car.

Richard Hanley

The dead youth and his companions, all World War veterans, were hurled from the running board where they were riding. The driver and at least one other man fled across the Common after the accident.

Michael J. McNamara, driving the truck, was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Wellwood is believed to have been killed outright when the car he was riding in with his two children, wife, and Thomas Flaherty of Palmer, Mass., the driver, overturned while rounding "Dead Man's Curve."

Mrs. Wellwood and the driver were bruised. Two-year-old Bernadine Wellwood escaped death when her mother sheltered her with her body.

HARDING STILL HOPES TO SELL OFF SHIPS

Washington, June 17.—President Harding has not yet abandoned hope that a way will be found to get the government out of the shipping business. The new chairman of the United States Shipping Board, Edward P. Farley, of Chicago, began his duties today under a presidential mandate to "find a way out" if possible. "Government operation," said the president in a farewell dinner to A. D. Lasker, the retiring chairman, "is at present our only resort, but it is not a permanent one."

TENANTS BEING GOUGED, SAYS REPORT

port on increase of rentals foisted on the workers by rent hogs after pay raises granted by mill owners.

The report is the most severe indictment of rent gougers in the annals of the state and the document is said to be one of the most denunciatory ever promulgated by state officials.

The commission investigated conditions following a mass meeting which included a tour of the property in question and the mills.

During the tour the commissioners received numerous individual complaints. They promised in the report today to consider these separately without further delay in an effort to force the landlords to make a fair adjustment.

The report urges the establishment of a local rent and housing commission for the following purposes:

To adjust rent and housing difficulties.

To prevent unjust and exorbitant increases in rents.

To call the attention of the board of health to property that is a menace to public health.

To call the attention of fire and police officials to property that is a fire hazard.

To call the attention of the assessors to property that is not assessed for its fair value.

To call the attention of the banks, holding mortgages on property where rents have been unjustly increased, to the profits.

To call attention of the United States and State tax officers to "the profits being realized by greedy real estate speculators and landlords."

To explain to tenants their duty in regard to the care of property.

"GREEDY LANDLORDS."

Extracts from the report follow:

"The large element of foreign born workers who are employed in this city are especially susceptible to exploitation.

"Encumbrances and greedy landlords have evidently taken advantage of the housing embarrassment of these workers to increase rents without regard to the value and condition of property as the income of the workers have been raised.

"The condition in the factories in Lawrence is much better than the condition of the houses which were inspected by the commission in response to complaints made to it.

NO REPAIRS FOR YEARS

"Many of the houses are occupied by three or four times as many persons as should properly live in them.

"Many of these dwellings have been without repairs for years.

"Much of this property is in bad condition with broken doors, worn out floors, holes in plaster, loose plaster, no paper or torn paper on the walls and in some cases no toilets, or toilets built in corners of kitchens without ventilation, leaky roofs, poor plumbing, unhealthy and unsanitary conditions and with rubbish in halls and alleys.

"The people who are obliged to live in this type of housing must find it a great relief to go into the well ventilated, well lighted, sanitary and finely constructed mills to work.

"The commission found the interior of most of the homes visited in a neat and tidy condition. The stoves, usually the property of the tenants, were well kept."

trackage, including the Boston and Worcester street railway system.

In 1907 he organized the James F. Shaw Co. Inc., which a year later came into a bankruptcy court with a petition for the appointment of a receiver. Assets were $880,000 against which were claims of $834,677.

A few years later his first wife, Nettie Eldredge Shaw, daughter of Fisher Shaw, millionaire Portsmouth, N. H. brewer, eloped with her husband's chauffeur, H. Keno Marble, whom she wed some time after obtaining a divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Shaw's process servers chased his wife all over Cape Cod to serve papers, but she eluded them and fled to California with the chauffeur, who, in turn, fled from their house in Santa Barbara for fear of meeting the ex-Senator.

Agents of Shaw kidnaped his son, Eldredge, but later the mother gained custody of the child.

Shaw wed a second time in 1913. He married Miss Lois Kenyon, daughter of a wealthy New York clubman.

BOSTON COUPLE HURT IN N. H. MOTOR CRASH

Concord, N. H., June 16.—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Weeks of Jamaica Plain, were injured today when a motorcycle in which they were riding crashed through a bridge rail at "Dead Man's Curve" in Boscawen and plunged 30 feet to the brook bed below. They were taken to a Concord hospital. The extent of their injuries has not been determined.

Victim of Attack

HELEN S. FARRICK.

GIRL ACCUSES 2 IN ATTACK

Joseph Malerba, fireman on the battleship Utah, and Frank Adams, a former Navy man, of No. 116 Main street, Charlestown, were held for the grand jury by Judge Sullivan in Charlestown Court today on the charge of attacking Helen G. Farrish, twenty-three years old, of No. 7 Graham court, Malden. Davis was also accused of stealing the girl's wrist watch and a small sum of money.

According to the girl she was with another sailor when Malerba and Davis took her away and led her to Davis' room. There she said she was forced to drink liquor and attacked.

E. T. McGETTRICK DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL

Edward T. McGettrick, member of the Boston bar and former assistant corporation counsel for the city, is dead. He died suddenly at the Boston Tavern, where he had been living for several months.

An autopsy will be held by Assistant Medical Examiner William J. Brickley to determine the cause of death.

Mr. McGetrick had been ill for some time, and his friends had noticed a marked change in his manner and physical condition.

During the night he rang for water to be brought to his room, but when the boy arrived he could not gain entrance. The door was forced and Mr. McGettrick was found unconscious. The house physician was called and he was pronounced dead.

Mr. McGettrick was a son of the late Felix McGettrick, who served as assistant district attorney of Suffolk county and in the National House of Representatives.

SEVEN ARTS TO GO AHEAD; WIN IN COURT

cipal Court ruled that sprightly Nan Mahoney of Charlestown, and her escort and companion, Hilton Smith, were not guilty of conducting a disorderly house and liquor nuisance in the club.

Bohemian Boston rejoiced at the court's finding. When the judge's decision was read a bevy of bobbed hair girls and youths burst into applause, thereby arousing the wrath of Court Officer Peter Hanley and his colleagues.

In spite of the mass of testimony introduced by Nan, founder of the club and originator of the Little Brown Jug tea room that preceded the Seven Arts, that the purpose of the organization was intellectual uplift, Judge Lourie decided otherwise. He said:

"I am convinced that the Seven Arts Club was not maintained as an intellectual arena for the study of the Seven Arts, or any other arts, but was simply formed to furnish a livelihood for the female defendant."

The court then complimented Sergeant Will Livingstone for his vigor in driving "the objectional from the West End," and praised Attorney Peter Borre, counsel for the defence, for his conduct of the case.

Relative to the "queer dancing," the police testified as to seeing at the club, the judge said: "I am convinced that the dancing was simply of the style known as 1924 and as for the costumes worn by the girls, I believe they were proper and in accord with the styles of attending dress now in vogue. The women were dressed, I believe, as women are dressed in leading hotels, theatres and other gathering places."

As to the liquor found by the police the judge declared he was satisfied that had been carried in by the guests and not sold by the proprietors of the club.

Even in the face of the explanations offered at the trial by the police are still mystified as to what comprises the Seven Arts.

U. S. SHIPS BATTLE RUM GANG IN JERSEY

Atlantic City, N. J. June 16.—A running fight in which several hundred shots were fired occurred today between rum-runners and government boats. Many bullets whistled over the Board Walk. Shortly before midnight two government boats from Barnegat, patrolling the inland waters, sighted several runners attempting to make a landing. The government craft, calling on the smugglers to stop, attempted to surround them, but they escaped in the fog.

They put on full speed, sweeping in so close to the shore that they almost touched bottom, and then dashed in single file ou to sea.

Hark to the Ticking
The Baby Marmoset
A Story of the Sea
We're Rich, Here

—By Arthur Brisbane—

COPYRIGHT, 1923 Star Co.

NEWS COMES ticking over the wires. Men, sitting near the dictating machine into which this is talked, listen to the ticking and repeat it with the clicking of typewriters.

As they change the Morse code into letters like these, they talk to each other, paying as little attention to the news as Father Time himself.

THE TICKING wire tells the fate of men. Stamboulisky, leader of the peasants, is dead. Bullets from the King's soldiers got him. That's official. It's too soon for farmers to manage a government—in Bulgaria at least.

BONAR LAW, faithful servant of the British Empire, an honest man, is probably dying—cancer of the throat. In an American hospital, the most powerful X-ray machines are working in the fight against cancer—but too late for Bonar law. Our great surgeon, Dr. Mayo, goes to Europe saying: "No sign of a cancer cure yet, but it will come."

MacDONALD SMITH, of California, broke the record for all time on the famous old Scotch golf course at Troon, making eighteen holes in 69. That's the most important news for millions of ardent golfers.

Mr. Holden, called the "Tiffany" among bird and animal dealers, showed yesterday a female marmoset as big as your fist. On the monkey's little head was sitting a marmoset baby, half the size of your thumb. This writer had the pleasure of giving that baby a small piece of banana. That was the news of the day in the marmoset cage. What's the difference between marmosets and golfers?

FROM THE ocean comes a story to make Stevenson of Treasure Island sit up in his grave on the hill. Twenty Chinese, one white captain, two white sailors, one negro sailor were on a small boat. The captain had agreed for $500 each to smuggle the Chinese into the United States. He took their money and abandoned them and the smuggling schooner close to the line of rum ships, just off New York.

A FIGHT BEGAN with razors, knives, revolvers, clubs. When police boarded the boat they found fifteen silent Chinamen, several of them bleeding freely, but not complaining. The two whites and the one black sailor are at the bottom of the sea, with five Chinese keeping them company.

Sing Guey, his right hand half severed, told the story. It was Darwin's survival of the fittest brought down to date. Numbers counted as well as "fitness." Two whites and one black have five Chinamen to keep them company, down below.

FIFTEEN CHINESE were left, no negro, no white man, then?

What do you think would happen throughout the world if all the babies born in China lived. And the Chinese nation, grown to 1,500,000,000, should take more interest in flying machines and less interest in opium? What would become of the white men

THIS COUNTRY deals in big figures. Yesterday the Treasury took in $750,000,000, of which $70,000,000 was from the British debt, the rest from the second income tax instalment, etc.

The British pay what they owe partly in United States bonds, taken by this government at par, which is fair enough. But if the government can take those bonds at par from England, why couldn't it take the same bonds at par from American citizens that bought them and couldn't afford to lose twenty or twenty-five cents on the dollar?

JAMAICA PLAIN WIFE GETS DIVORCE

Winsted, Conn., June 16.—Winnifred Margraff of Jamaica Plain, Mass., formerly of Watertown, Conn., was divorced from Dr. Henry W. Margraff on the ground of infidelity by Judge J. H. Kellogg in Superior Court.

They were married in Boston, December 28, 1909, and later moved to Watertown, where they lived several years.

LAY BIG THEFT TO EX-ITALIAN BANKER

Genoa, June 16 (By the Associated Press).—Commendatore Gustavo Rubino, former director of the bank of Naples here, is under arrest on a charge of embezzling 18,000,000 lire from the bank, which is one of the leading financial institutions of Italy.

ASKS INQUIRY IN 'SLAVERY' CHARGES

"BEATING" VICTIM AND WOMAN WHO AIDED HER

Mrs. Worden, at top, in whose barn Louise Reilly (in circle) was found sobbing, and who comforted the girl after her discovery. At bottom, Worden barn, in haymow of which Louise took refuge.

"Accusers Looking for Chance to Do Me Harm," Says Orphan Farm Proprietor, Denying Accusations.

Acton, June 16.—"My wife and I have been greatly wronged. Charges have been made against us which are not true. These charges have been made because the persons who made them are looking for a chance to do me harm.

"I welcome the whole world to my place to investigate the manner in which these children are being treated. I have nothing to conceal."

John Smith, proprietor of the orphan farm here, thus defended himself today against charges that children boarded on his place by the Avon Home have been cruelly beaten and forced to work like men in the fields from early morning until late at night.

BLAMES NEIGHBOR.

In short, Smith declared that the charges all grew out of a neighborhood row. He accuses Mrs. Benjamin Pope, wife of a Cambridge lumber dealer, of being the instigator. She has been sore at me for some time and has taken this means to get back at me," he said.

The charges followed the running away of a seventeen-year-old Louise Reilly, one of the girls boarded at the farm, who was found in the haymow of Henry Worden, a neighbor, sobbing and crying. The girl told the Wordens a tale of being beaten by Mrs. Smith.

ADMITS CHILD WAS HIT.

"I want to tell the facts of this case," said Smith. "There were no welts on that girl. I saw her the next morning. My wife did not abuse her. The girl was fighting with one of the boys here and would not stop. My wife told her to stop, but the child was in such a perfect rage that she only screamed that she would kill the boy. Then she pushed him face down into the woodpile. My wife tried to pull her off and when she couldn't she took a piece of lathe and hit her with it on the arm and leg.

"The girl became furious then and ran away. Then the storm broke loose. Chief of Police Maury Brown came here and told me he had a complaint. The chief went away satisfied that there was nothing wrong.

"Mrs. Pope went to Boston and complained at the State House. But she was wrong, and the other people here are wrong when they accuse me of abusing the children and working them hard. I welcome an investigation."

When the Boston American reporter visited the farm today he found a happy crowd of children there. The boys and girls were tanned, healthy looking and happy. Two of the boys were riding bicycles and two were rolling hoops. The others were shouting and chasing each other about the place as children do.

"How do you like it here?" asked the reporter.

"Fine," was the chorus.

"Would you like to leave here?"

Even Louise Reilly, the girl who has caused the trouble, answered "No."

They dashed off to play amid joyful shouts.

Miss Emma O. Stannard, secretary of the Avon Home, visited the farm with one of the trustees and later declared no children had been abused.

ILLINOIS KILLS DRY REPEAL BILLS

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—The last hope of wet forces in the Illinois Legislature to repeal the State law providing for prohibition enforcement vanished when the lower house, in a "cleaning up" process preparatory to adjournment wiped from the calendar the O'Grady bill which would have submitted the question to a referendum. The Senate went on record against a repeal of the law when it voted down a bill similar to the O'Grady measure, but without the referendum clause.

PARKS FALSE TEETH IN WRONG FLIVVER

Muncie, Ind., June 16.—Homer Jones, whose farm is within comfortable flivvering distance, drove to town parked his car, and visited his favorite barber. He feared he might swallow his teeth, so parked them under the seat of his car. After finishing business in town, Jones reached under the seat of his car for his teeth. It was then he realized all flivvers look alike. He had parked them in the wrong auto.

J. McPARLAND, LABOR LEADER, SUCCUMBS

Indianapolis, June 16.—John McParland, president of the International Typographical Union, and a well-known labor leader, died here today from heart trouble, brought on by a severe attack of influenza. He was 55 years old, and his home was in New York City.

AMERICANS JOIN GAY THRONG

Brilliancy of British Social Event Will Outrival Those of Pre-War Days.

London, June 16 (9).—The royal Ascot meeting, which lasts from Tuesday to Friday of next week, bids fair to outrival from a social viewpoint its pre-war predecessors.

The King and Queen will have Windsor Castle, which is close to Ascot Heath, full of guests all the week and if the weather holds good their Majesties will follow the usual custom of leading the procession of state carriages from the Duke's Drive in the castle to the race course. This is one of the features of the meeting.

AMERICANS ARE HOSTS

There will be semi-state dinner parties each evening at the castle. Members of societies also plan to entertain their guests on a lavish scale at their nearby residences, and such houses in the district as are not owned by wealthy people have been hired by Americans as well as Britishers for months ahead for this festive occasion.

In contrast to Derby Week, which is an outing for the masses, the Ascot meeting is almost exclusively a society function, and the women participants vie with each other in the picturesqueness of their attire, which West End modistes have been creating for weeks.

Most of the dress material used this year is of a soft clinging texture, while the hats are broad-brimmed and drooping, simply trimmed.

WILL WEAR MOURNING.

In consequence of the death of Princess Christian, the King's aunt, several prominent members of society have contemplated their order for colored dresses and will wear black and white gowns similar to Queen Mary's attire at the recent courts.

A number of valuable prizes and stakes will be contested for in the racing. These include the Royal Hunt Cup and the Ascot stakes.

HUGHES SAFE IF HE CALLS CABINET

Washington, June 16.—In connection with President Harding's forthcoming trip to Alaska, a speculation of the President was asked whether there would be any meeting of the Cabinet during the President's absence. The answer was that no such meetings were contemplated, but differences did not exist in the Cabinet and the Secretary of State could safely call a Cabinet meeting without a fear of his resignation being asked.

GANNA TO SHOW SHE CAN SING

New She'll Make One Final Effort To Win "Unappreciative" Yankees.

Ganna Walska.

Paris, June 16 (I.N.S.)Mme. Ganna Walska, beautiful Polish adagio dancer and wife of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, is going to make one final effort to establish herself in American grand opera. She will leave for the U. S. July 11, hopeful that her heralded art efforts will achieve success upon the American concert platform and operatic stage.

Mme. Walska, some months ago, declared Americans were not appreciative of her voice.

Friends, who attended the big Russian festival given at Mme. Walska's palatial Paris home yesterday, said the singer is worried over possible postponement or cancellation of her debut in "Rigoletto," at the Paris opera on June 26.

An obstacle in the way of satisfying Mme. Walska's exacting tastes was costumes, following dispute with the manager of the Follies Bergere over the gowns to have been worn in Warsaw, the Polish singer has given her orders for new costumes to Redferns. These are the ones she plans to wear in "Rigoletto."

"I do not see how we can get them completed in time," said the manager of the Redferns. "We have fifty ateliers working day and night trying to get them rushed through."

But, for the time being, Ganna has forgotten costumes in a new trouble. Joseph Schwartz, of the Berlin opera, who was engaged to sing with her at her debut, has telegraphed to Mme. Walska that he cannot arrive in Paris until the 24th two days before the event.

FORD WANTS TO SAY: "PEOPLE CALLED ME"

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 16 (I.N.S.).—"Henry Ford wants to run for the presidency. He will run on a third party ticket. This is what he wants to do. He wants to stand up in the White House and say, 'The people called here to me.'

"In these words," a Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris, of Michigan, predicted that Ford would be a candidate for the presidency.

"I am confident that Mr. Ford wants to be President. He does not admit it, but I have information that makes me firm in my conviction. Don't think for a minute that he has no power. It is surprising the number of people who believe that Ford would make a fine President.

"I could not support Ford. He is not a Democrat, and neither is he a Republican. Just what his principles are I don't know."

WISCONSIN HOUSE ADOPTS INCOME TAX

Madison, Wis., June 15.—The third General Income Tax bill in the Wisconsin Legislature was engrossed by the Assembly today, 64 to 17, after the Hanson substitute amendment, endorsed by Governor Blaine and Speaker Dahl, had been accepted.

The La Follette Progressive Republicans and Socialists had complete control.

The substitute amendment which displaced the original bill calls for a graduated tax on individual incomes ranging from 1 per cent. on the first $1,000 of taxable income to 10 per cent. on incomes over $15,000. The new tax bill is expected to produce $14,500,000 annual revenue for the State.

Don't Forget "Dad" on Father's Day Tomorrow

The quiet, retired little man, who pays the bills and bears all the abuse, will be in the limelight tomorrow, Father's Day.

The order of the day for Mother's Day recently was the wearing of white or red carnations.

"Get Dad a tie or some other worth while gift" is the slogan of the day.

CHILD MOURNS LOSS OF PET BULL DOG

Little Eddie Casey has lost his pet. Eddie is but two years old and so is bull pup. Lad was given to Eddie when father and pup were each only a few days old and they have been constant pals ever since. Eddie's father, Daniel Casey, of No. 41 Seaver street, had made this fact known to Eddie, the first being seen on last night when the fire started by lightning, got beyond control.

The blaze consumed thousands of barrels of oil and gasoline stored in huge tanks at the plant, covering numerous blocks along the Allegheny river and burned a number of other buildings, including the paint house shop of the United Engineering & Foundry Company and the garage of the Pittsburgh Bushel Basket Company.

750 BARRELS AN HOUR.

The fire was burning early today at an estimated rate of 750 barrels an hour and firemen had thrown up dirt barriers in an effort to keep the flames from reaching a gasoline filling station containing thousands of barrels of fuel. The estimate said damage would approximate a half million dollars.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSIONS.

Explosions after explosion rocked the district as tanks after tank let go in quick succession, driving fire men back by the intense heat as blazing sheets leaped high into the air in great waves.

20 Firemen Trapped in Blazing Oil Sea

Pittsburgh, June 16.—A score of city firemen were trapped at the Atlantic Refining Company storage yards when a big oil tank, burning since yesterday, collapsed this afternoon.

Two explosions, following the collapse of the tank, showered flaming oil over an area of two acres. All ambulances in the city were summoned to the scene.

Persons watching the fire were horrified when they were caused to see the shower of oil. The firemen who were trapped were at work in the storage yards near the tank.

A SEA OF FLAMES.

Without warning the big engineer ragged and a moment later the oil in the pond was a sea of flames.

Firemen attempting to reach those trapped found it difficult to get near the yards because of the intense heat and massive smoke.

A general alarm calling out all available apparatus in the city was sounded soon after the explosions rocked the neighborhood. It was the second general alarm in two days, the first being sent in last night when the fire started by lightning, got beyond control.

STAGE AND SCREEN

BOSTON AMERICAN

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1923

SCREEN STARS TURN FACES TOWARD HUB

THE second invasion of Boston by a delegation of screen celebrities under the direction of Marcus Loew is one of the features planned for the opening of Mr. Loew's open-air show at Braves Field on Monday, June 25. Mr. Loew's first expedition against Boston in this manner signalized the opening of the State Theatre more than a year ago and kept the traffic men in the police department busy for a day keeping the downtown highways open for ordinary business.

THAT Mr. Loew intends to surpass any other theatre opening he has ever had is given in the first list of movie stars forwarded to Charles Wuerz several days ago from the New York office. Although tentative it includes such well-known names as Thomas Meighan, one of the most popular masculine stars of the day; Gloria Swanson, one of the most beautiful ladies of filmdom; Anita Stewart, who has held a prominent place in movie stardom for some years, and Jane and Katherine Lee, juvenile leading lights of the screen and vaudeville stage.

Alex Hyde

Numbered among the forty celebrities to arrive here Monday morning, June 25, and to remain here three days, making personal appearances at Braves Field every evening, will be stars of the musical comedy, vaudeville and legitimate stages. Powerful speaking tubes are being installed throughout the park so that everyone can be heard plainly.

A STREET parade will immediately follow the arrival of the movie party on Monday morning. Alex Hyde, Paul Whiteman's protege and former band master in the United States Navy, is already on the ground rehearsing his forty jazz syncopators in special dance arrangements. The portable dance floor will accommodate 10,000 dancers.

"Trifling With Honor," a picture based on the recent baseball scandal, has been chosen for the first feature for Braves Field. Two screens have been erected, one at third base and the other at first, so that everyone will have a straight view of the picture. "The Burning of Rome" will be the first week's fireworks spectacle. There will be no reserved seats. The advance sale for the first three nights, when the moving picture stars will be introduced, has been made because of the limited number for each night and to prevent a crush at the ticket windows.

PLAYS THAT REMAIN

"Molly Darling" at the Colonial. (Fourth week.) The dancing feet of Jack Donahue and the merry voices of a winsome chorus united in rollicking Summer entertainment.

"Liza" at the Wilbur. (Fourth week.) Musical comedy by an all-colored company of entertainers. Plenty of everything that makes restful hours for the tired business man.

"The Rise of Rosie O'Reilly" at the Tremont. (Fifth week.) The greatest dancing show that ever kept a hard-working orchestra in perspiration. One of Mr. Cohan's best bets.

"The Man Who Came Back" at the St James. (Fouth week.) Boston's favorite stock company in a red blooded drama that takes its characters half way around the world.

"The Covered Wagon" at the Majestic. (Fifth week.) Faithful picturization of the Oregon Trail, with a band of forty-eighters moving across the western plains.

"Follies of the Day" at the Gayety. (Seventh week.) The best there is in burlesque, with "Bozo" Snyder and Gertrude Hayes putting a full measure of good cheer into the proceedings. Last week.

Popular Acts In New Bill At B. F. Keith's

The bill at B. F. Keith's for the coming week is allstar in every sense of the word. Of headline importance are Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield in "Change Your Act or Back to the Woods"; Leon and company, the world's greatest magical entertainers; Flo Lewis in "Silks and Laces"; Ray Raymond and Dorothy MacKaye in "A Chance Acquaintance in Fifteen Minutes," and Franklyn and Charles in "A Clever Combination of Everything." Pressler and Klaiss, a lively dance duo; Ann Gray with her harp; Dave Roth, the versatile comic and his sensational dummy dance "Annie" and Canova's plastic posing dogs are other excellent acts on the program.

Many Novelties Shown at Norumbega Park

The new season at Norumbega Park is now well under way, with all of the novelty features fully installed and drawing their usual attention from the pleasure seekers who find the big recreation park in Auburndale a restful place for a day's outing.

The Italian Symphony Orchestra, with Raffaele Martino conducting, will appear in its second open air concert tomorrow afternoon and evening. The program will contain classical, operatic and popular numbers. During the coming week in the theatre there will be a vaudeville and picture program, including Charles Reader, xylophone soloist, the Four Dancing Madcaps, Marcus and Burr, the Exposition Four and Grace Elder and company.

HIS BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE MOTHER

Newport, R. I., June 16.—A transfusion of blood from her son last week failed to save the life of Mrs. Harriet Morris, mother of Gouverneur Morris, the famous author. Mrs. Morris died at Malbone, the estate of her father, Henry Bedlow.

She was the widow of Commander Francis Morris, U. S. N., and with him she had sailed to practically all ports in Europe. She had been ill for more than a year and before her illness she was identified with social activities in Newport and New York. Her father was at one time Mayor of Newport.

ITALY UPHOLDS RUHR POLICY OF BRITAIN

London, June 16 (I.N.S.)—Italy has indicated she will support great Britain's Ruhr policy, it was learned today.

A Central News despatch from Rome said the Facisti press opposes France's demand that Germany cease passive resistance in the Ruhr before reparations negotiations open.

Great Britain will make no further move until France replies to the British memorandum demanding more light upon France's Ruhr policy and especially the French definition of "passive resistance."

It is reported that Premier Poincare will answer many of the British questions with counter questions.

Another report was that Poincare may propose an entirely new reparations scheme. The French reply is expected about Wednesday.

90 Per. Cent. Lose Playing Stocks on Margin

New York, June 16 (I.N.S.)—"Ninety per cent. of persons who invest in Wall street securities on a marginal basis lose their money, and only 10 per cent. are able to take profits," W. S. Silkworth, president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, testified at a referee's hearing into the $4,000,000 failure of S. S. Rukay Company.

Profits are available then only in case the 10 per cent. have dealt with trustworthy brokers instead of a bucket shop.

To the Theatregoers of Boston:

THE A. L. ERLANGER BOOKING OFFICES, both for the theatres under their direction and the affiliation of theatres booked by the MESSRS. SHUBERT, announce that contracts have just been closed with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for special engagements throughout the United States and Canada of the Great Motion Picture.

The Covered Wagon

for the entire theatrical season of 1923-24 in the principal theatres of the country. There will be only one engagement of this wonderful attraction in each city.

It indeed gives us pleasure to open the theatres, which are usually devoted solely to the great stage successes, to this marvelous epoch-making story which so vividly glorifies a page of American history.

EDISON HIRED 60 OUT OF 2000 COLLEGE MEN

New York, June 16.—"Manufacturers and heads of industrial plants should get their men from the Technical Schools, where men are taught to be accurate," declared Thomas A. Edison in a statement to the Tribune today.

Although denying he opposes colleges, Mr. Edison said he is convinced there is something wrong with the college system. He said he got some of the best men in his plant at West Orange, N. J., from colleges but admitted that the 60 in his employ had been culled out of 2,000.

"There is something wrong with the college system," he said in explanation. "I don't know what the trouble is; that's not my line. I can only judge by the results. But one thing is certain: The present system of education in the colleges does not train men to think.

"University presidents in criticising my questionnaires said that the college doesn't try to fill the student's mind with a lot of information, but teaches him where to find it. Yet when we tried my questionnaire at one college the students couldn't pass it because they didn't know where to find what they wanted.

"Culture is very nice," he continued, "but is has nothing to do with the balance sheet."

BULGAR REVOLT STIRS BALKAN WAR SCARE

Athens, June 16 (I.N.S.)—The Balkan volcano again is threatening eruption today as a result of Bulgarian frontier fighting. Three Thracian Frontier dispatches that the Sofia uprising which overturned the Stambouliisky government, was distinctly militaristic.

Macedonians have organized a national movement, demanding Macedonian autonomy. Any attempt to set up an Independent Republic in Macedonia would be sure to lead to international conflict.

Greece, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania may join hands in active resistance if the Macedonians attempt to set up autonomy.

Many of the 20,000 officers demobilized by Bulgaria under the Treaty of Neuilly are reported to have returned to the colors.

It is reported that hundreds of bands of Bulgarian irregulars have cast their lot with the government against the peasant "Orange Guard."

The Sofia correspondent of the Times reported severe fighting in which casualties were heavy. Revolutionary leaders believe they will have little difficulty in putting down the counter revolution now former Premier Alexander Stambouliisky is dead.

Peasant bands, carrying flags of truce, are said to have fired on revolutionary troops. Peasant detachments are trying to approach Sofia. King Boris is ready to flee by airplane if the peasants are successful.

SUES TO RECOVER RINGS GIVEN GIRL

The recovery of two diamond rings said to be worth $500 is sought by Francis Manning in a bill in equity brought against Miss Mary G. Moore. Manning claims that the rings were given to Miss Moore when she promised to marry him. She denied that and says that they were Christmas presents. The case is being heard by Judge Morton.

Nina Higginson Rogers Visits Parents on North Shore En Route to Chicago

By BETTY ALDEN.

Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers, Jr. (Nina Higginson), who is visiting at the North Shore home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, before joining her husband in Chicago. (Photo by Henry Havelock Pierce.)

THE travel-baring Bernard F. Rogers, Jr., have returned from their wedding trip abroad, young Rogers going right on to Chicago, where his bride will soon join him.

Meantime, jolly Nina Higginson Rogers is visiting for a while with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, at their Prides Crossing villa. Her arrival on the Shore was hailed with delight, for the bride of last March has always ranked as one of the leaders of her circle set.

Everyone is sorry to lose her, of course, but unfortunately her husband's home is in Chicago. It was he, by the way, who sailed on the famous little "Spee-jacks" when the latter made its trip around the world, thereby proving itself the smallest motor boat on record to accomplish this feat.

However, Nina Rogers will find not a few former Bostonians to greet her when she comes to the windy City to live. Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell (Barbara Higginson)—the latter a cousin of Mrs. Rogers—have been making their home there for several seasons now, though they come on to Boston for frequent visits.

They will also find there Prince Michael Cantacuzenus and his tall, blonde-haired Charlese, the young couple just arriving in Chicago after two Winters in New York. Princess Charlese was formerly Charlese Curtis of Boston, daughter of Mrs. Tom Pelham Curtis, with whom she has just concluded a visit at the Curtis Summer home in Nahant.

I EXPECT that a most representative gathering of Boston's far-famed "Four Hundred" will be on hand to witness the marriage of lovely Sally Bremer and Henry Hardwick Charless, the wedding taking place this afternoon at four o'clock in Emmanuel Church. The bride, the oldest of the S. Parker Bremers' three daughters, is tall and slender and of purest blonde type. She will be attended only by her two sisters, the Misses Mabel and Ruth Bremer.

Some of the more ardent wedding fans are finding today a very busy affair. At 12:30—in All Saints' Church, out Concord way—comes the marriage of Miss Harriet Lyman Stevens to Alexander Andrew Robey, with a wedding breakfast following at the country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks Stevens.

At three o'clock pretty sub-deb Vera Howell will promise "to love, honor and obey" Gustav Richmond Fearing, 3rd, in St. Paul's Church, Dedham. There will be a reception at the Charles River Village home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Haughton.

Another wedding taking place at four o'clock today besides the Emmanuel Church nuptials, is the marriage of Miss Harriet Kanhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kanhardt, to Felix Whitman Knauth of New York, a Harvard '18 man. It will be solemnized at St. Paul's Church in North Andover, with a reception following at "Hardcourt," the country home of the bride's family.

LOCAL-LAFS TO SHOW ON THE FILMS ON MONDAY

Tomorrow motion picture screens in Boston will show for the first time the Local-Laf film of the Boston American.

Fans will thus have an opportunity to witness screen laughs made by themselves.

The first Local-Laf film carries with it no prizes. It is in the nature of what is known in the profession as a "tryout." The first of the Local-Laf film which carry cash awards will appear the following Sunday.

Then each of the lafs used will be credited to the Boston American reader who sent it in, and thus the fortunate authors will get not only cash payment, but authorship credit.

FIFTEEN ON EACH FILM.

The Local-Laf film will have fifteen jokes on it, all sent in by readers of the Boston American, selected after a careful reading. The best of these will receive a cash prize of $5; the second best a prize of $3 and the third best $2. The remaining twelve will receive prizes of a dollar each.

In the meantime Local Lafs will continue to be printed each day in the Boston American, just as Nifties were formerly printed. These will be paid for at the rate of a dollar each.

None of the fifteen Local Lafs selected for the screen and for the screen cash prizes will be printed in this column. You must go to your movie theatre to see them. And if your movie theatre isn't showing Local Lafs, find out from the man age why not.

Here are a few words of advice to those who are participating.

THE CONDITIONS

1. Inasmuch as this is a Local-Laf feature, the jokes which are about Boston and New England necessarily stand the best chance of winning cash prizes.

2. Sometimes the shortest jokes are the best; brevity is a desirable feature.

3. The Local-Laf Editor has to read scores of jokes each day. That makes him hard-boiled on humor. So you can co-operate at least by writing your jokes legibly. If they're not written legibly they won't be read at all.

4. Don't copy jokes out of Joke books or other film features of a similar nature. If you do this you are simply trying to put something over. You may get away with it, but if you are found out you will get no prize. And it isn't honest. We want original jokes.

Here are a couple of Local-Lafs just a little under qualifications for the film, but good enough to get the daily dollar prize:

By Peter Kirk, No. 10 Pleasant avenue, Providence, R. I.

Ethel: I love to rest my head against yours, George.

George: Ah, you love me!

Ethel: No dear, your head is so nice and soft.

Mrs. Thomas H. Black, No. 94 Cherry street, West Newton, Mass.

"Expert Wid Knife Rayfuses" to Let Dooley Die

New York, June 16. (C. N. S.)—Finley Peter Dunn, noted humorist and creator of "Mr. Dooley," who was operated on for gallstones, was rapidly convalescing today.

"Hinnissey," said the humorist, "you can tell Hogan wid no compliments that he won't have to squandher any of his hard earned wages for flowers for me now. That will console Hogan, though, truth t' tell, I'm not so sure about yerself. Howandiver, Hinnissey, ye can tell all th' lads of Archery road that great expert wid th' knife, Dr. James I. Russell, rayfuses to let me die this time.

"Gwan now, Hinnissey, about yer business and thry to be as good as ye can l' ye can."

HEAR MARY EATON HAS WON OIL MAN

New York, June 16.—Is it true that dainty Mary Eaton, premier dancer of the Follies, is going to be married to Otto Morris? That question went the rounds of the theatrical district. Morris was described as a wealthy oil man.

Mary Eaton

Friends of Miss Eaton could only say they had heard the rumor.

Miss Eaton herself said:

"I am not engaged to Mr. Morris or to any one else. He is a good friend, like lots of others. I'm going to stick to my work."

COLORED VETERANS FORM OWN POST

A post, composed entirely of colored veterans, was welcomed to the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Gardner Auditorium in the State House amid loud acclaim from the assembled delegates. The Patrick E. Toy Post of the South End boasts forty-three colored veterans. The president, Frank D. Gibson, thanked the delegates for the welcome.

Department Adjuant John H. Wallace reported that ten new posts have been admitted. The organization now has sixty posts and 6,000 members.

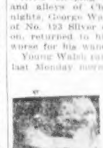
LAD RUNS AWAY, SPENDS NIGHTS IN CHINATOWN

After sleeping in the doorways and alleys of Chinatown for five nights, George Walsh, ten years old of No. 153 Silver street, South Boston, returned to his home near the Dorchester line today.

Young Walsh ran away from home last Monday morning, after he had played hookey from school. He feared the punishment he would receive.



George E. Walsh

In company with another boy about his own age he jumped upon an auto truck on Broadway and soon arrived in Chinatown. In some way or other the boys became separated and the Walsh boy decided to "stick it out," as he said.

In a short time it became dark and the sleepy young runaway hunted for a place to sleep. The only place he could find was in doorways and alleys.

For the entire five nights he slept in this fashion.

Every morning he woke up early and sold papers for a newsdealer to earn his breakfast money.

One morning he woke up and was surprised to find that the newsdealer had not left him any papers to sell. He searched the entire district without any trace of the missing newsdealer. Two days' starvation soon drove him to do what he thought impossible. He made up his mind to go home.

"When he arrived home he ate me out of house and home," declared his mother.

SEEK TO BALK STRIKE OF MILK DRIVERS

The Francis S. Cummings Company, milk dealers, Medford, filed a bill in equity in Superior Court today seeking to enjoin Wagon Drivers' Union No. 380, and Jeremiah F. Driscoll, its business agent, from calling a drivers' strike.

MME. GADSKI'S DAUGHTER IS MARRIED

Universal Service.

Berlin, June 16.—Charlotte, only daughter of Captain Hans Tauscher and Madame Gadski Tauscher, was married in Trinity Church to Ernest Hesch, grand nephew of the late Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, and the son of Madame Busch Hesnes of Berlin.

Jacob Schenck of the Chicago Opera Company, and Madame Nielsen-Stone, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera House, colleagues of Miss Gadski, sang during the ceremony.

Afterwards a dinner of seventy covers was given at the Casserhof. Among the guests were Secretary of State by Hamilton Albert, Frederick Boos, president of the Gage Company, and Victor Rudie of New York.

The bride's wedding gown was fashioned from a piece of antique brussels lace, six yards in length, belonging to the bride's mother and worn by Madame Gadski at the gala functions given at the White House during the administration of President Taft.

WAR LOVE LETTER IS LAST WILL

New York, June 16.—A love letter written by Ernest G. Mason in the trenches of France to Miss Eleanor Keyser of Brooklyn today was accepted by Surrogate Wingate as Mason's last will and testament, and by it Miss Knapp will receive $12,000.

The letter, written a short time before Mason went over the top for the last time, told Miss Knapp, Mason's fiance, that if anything happened to him, he wanted her to have all his possessions, including his insurance.

Mason was captured by the Germans and last was heard of in a prison camp.

GETS 6 MONTHS FOR GUN THREAT

Charged with threatening his wife and two children with a revolver and knife, Frank Jereaky of No. 252 Fourth street, South Boston, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction today in South Boston court. He appealed.

According to the police Jereaky threatened when he returned home from work that he intended to wipe out the family. Then, going to his bedroom he obtained the revolver. Later he picked up the knife. His 12-year-old son slipped out of the house and notified the police.

WINS ANNAPOLIS BY WAY OF NAVY

When Francis Joseph Wiedmann of No. 7 Fatten street, Hyde Park, graduates from the Boston Latin school in June he will receive a Congressional appointment as an Annapolis midshipman. He joined the navy with the idea of working his way up to one of the 100 Navy appointments made each year. Now, after two years, success has rewarded his efforts and he will enter the naval academy on July 1. Wiedmann ad-

WED PEGGY? "IT'S AWFUL MISTAKE"

New York, June 16.—An indignant youth, one Thomas Buckley Wells, son of a Minneapolis millionaire, arrived today on the United States liner George Washington.

He listened with interest to the news that cables had carried a report that he had won the heart of the beautiful Peggy Marsh. Then he smiled.

Peggy Marsh

"It's a terrible mistake, an awful mistake. I may issue a statement."

2 LINCOLN STILLS BRING $50 FINES

Two residents of Lincoln were found guilty in the District Court, at Concord, by Judge Elihu G. Loomis of Bedford, of keeping intoxicating liquors with intent to sell. Peter Orsen and Peter Christensen were each fined $50. Chief John J. Kelleher of the Lincoln police found stills at their homes.

LOOK — THERE'S MONEY AND LUCK IN YOUR NAME

NAMESTERS!
What can you do with your name?

Can you make a funny sentence out of it? Or a wise sentence? Or a snappy one? Or a slangy one? Or any kind of a sentence?

The Boston American offers a dollar to any one who sends in a bright or unusual sentence made up of the first letters of either your FIRST, middle or LAST name.

Every one printed gets a dollar. Each week a prize of $5 will be given to the best one used that week.

Everybody in Boston takes a shot at this game. It's plenty of fun trying to figure out the different sentences you can make in this way. And if you get one printed it means a dollar, or $5 if it is the best one printed during the week.

Send as many as you like. Make up sentences from your first, middle or last name. Nobody is barred.

Best at the Bottom

"Yes," said the farmer, "I know there are people what always put the big apples at the top of the barrel, but I don't." "That's right," exclaimed his minister admiringly. "I have always tried to convince folk that that sort of thing doesn't pay in the long run." "If they'd go into town once in a while, they'd learn something," said the farmer. "I always puts my big apples at the bottom of the barrel." "That's the way," agreed the minister. "Yes," said the farmer confidentially; "you see people has got so suspicious that they 'most always open the barrel at the bottom nowadays!"

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

EVERY city in the country has been holding endurance exhibitions and now the farmers are going to stage a milking contest.

THIS will be great sport for everybody except the cows.

THE society for the prevention of cruelty to animals should stop this exhibition and make the farmers hold their endurance contest with condensed milk.

IT would be just as thrilling and the milk-maid with the sharpest can opener would win.

THE other way it wouldn't be any fun for the bovine, because no waiter who won the newspapers wouldn't publish the picture of the cow.

THE milk-maid could smile at the reporters, and the cow couldn't.

A HOMELY girl can win a prize in a beauty contest, but a good looking Holstein can't even get his name in the paper.

BUT you can't blame the reporter, he can't take a cow out to dinner.

STILL, some Jerseys couldn't eat much more than a lot of dames do.

YOU'VE got to fill a dame up on caviar, steaks and lobster, and a bossy would be satisfied with lettuce and spinach.

THIS milking contest is to be held next week and will be a surprise. Nobody has told the cows about it yet.

THE girl who succeeds in getting the most quarts of milk will be presented with a milking stool built like a morris chair.

IT will be upholstered any way she wants so long as it matches the other furniture in the barn.

HOWEVER, this prize is unjust, the cow does half the work and the chances are it will never get a chance to sit in the chair.

THE milk-maid will be using it most of the time and there won't be room enough in it for both of them.

SOME of these endurance dancers should go up to the farm and teach the cows to shimmy. If they did this, the cows could soon learn to churn their own butter.

BUT there's so much oleomargarine on the market today that it's a wise bossy who knows her own butter.

IF this milking contest becomes known, a lot of fellows will desert the dance halls and start being cow-boys.

FOCUS YOUR ATTENTION WHETHER FOR WORK, REST OR PLAY

When you have time to do pretty nearly all the things you want to do, how do you use it?

You dawdle around, stand on one foot, then on the other, and do not get down to actual work because you know you have so much time.

It would not take a minute to pick up after yourself and keep everything picked up as you go along, but you throw your hat one place, your gloves another, your papers are strewn from one end to the other, all because you realize that you have time enough for all that you have planned.

But the trouble is that this state of mind works exactly the opposite in results.

You get into such a lazy, loafing mood that it is actually hard for you to get yourself in hand at the last moment to complete your work.

You waste such a lot of time doing the things which do not count and then find yourself pressed for time to do the essentials.

Regardless of whether you have time or not, why do you not plan your tasks and get them done expeditiously, and then really rest and recreate in your spare time?

Focus your efforts whether it be for work, rest or play.

SEASHORE, COUNTRY AND HISTORY ALONG CAPE COD AUTO TOUR

WONDERFUL CHARM ALONG PATHS OF VACATION LAND

By H. E. CASEY.

A Cape Cod Motor Trip map is again published in accordance with the requests from the readers of the Boston American. As the writer has made a complete tour of the Cape, covering all roads, he can say good highways are found all the way. The short detours mentioned last week are no longer, as the new bridge from Chatham to West Dennis is complete and roads are repaired at Bridgewater.

The route is Boston, Scituate, Brant Rock, Duxbury, Plymouth, Buzzards Bay, Falmouth, Wellfleet, Provincetown, Hyannis, Falmouth Heights, Wood's Hole, parking machine at Penzance garage. A boat trip to the Islands and return en route by automobile to Falmouth on to Wareham, Marion, Bridgewater, Boston.

Cape Cod is noted for possessing both seashore and country; you have only to turn your back on one to face the other, thereby making a very delightful motor trip and a charming spot for a vacation.

BATHING IS EXCELLENT

The bathing along the Cape is excellent, as the water is of agreeable temperature, especially during the month of June. The long white, hard sandy beaches are unsurpassed for both surf and still water bathing.

Throughout the trip are many historical sites spotted with beautiful monuments that mark different eras of the Pilgrims' first hard ships in New England.

The Cape hotels—from the modest Wayside Inn to the most luxurious of modern hostelries—are the pride of the Cape. Accommodations for every purse and catering to every taste are at the will of the motorist.

START OF ROUTE.

Starting at Brunswick Hotel, Boston, west on Clarendon street to Commonwealth avenue, to Kenmore square; at fork in road turn left straight ahead; meeting car track turn right to Jamaicaway.

Duxbury—Return to Marshfield Postoffice, cross tracks at square, turn left on main highway, straight ahead to Duxbury, then straight ahead. At three corners keep straight (to the left is the Miles Standish Monument) ahead, at fork in road bear left on side road to Hill Crest Inn. On the south side of Captains Hill and Miles Standish monument, overlooking Plymouth and Kingston Bay, is a short beautiful drive off the main road.

VIEW OF HARBOR.

Return to main highway, keeping straight ahead through Kingston to Plymouth. (Plymouth Rock and view of harbor can be reached by bearing left on side road.) Down grade straight ahead meeting signs.

Idlewild Hotel only about 200 feet from the main road. Straight ahead on main road to Canal at Sagamore, straight on over bridge, turning left, Sagamore Inn on right.

This is of special interest to the tourist at the present time being situated on the banks of New England's new main highway, the Cape Cod Canal. Straight ahead on main highway passing garage on right. Daniel Webster Inn is one of the historic landmarks of the Cape with many quaint, old-fashioned fireplaces and antique furnishings. Dinners are always ready for the tourist. Straight ahead State road right through to Sandwich. Straight road through Barnstable, Yarmouth and Hyannis. Big sign on left bearing to Nobscussett Hotel.

A short drive off the main road is the Chequesset Inn, being built upon a site unique among the hotels of Cape Cod, on the end of a substantial and spacious pier directly over the water, commanding fine ocean and land views. Return to main road driving straight ahead over a few steep hills about thirty miles of sandy country but fine roads to Provincetown.

A very quaint Cape Cod town with many historic places to visit. The Vernon House is on the main street overlooking the ocean. A fine spring place should you stay over night. Adams' authorized A. L. A. garage is also in the centre of the town. A garage with ample storage space, a machine shop in connection with all facilities for service to the automobilist. Centrally located on main street is the Surfside Cafe, delightfully furnished with a beautiful view of the harbor from its windows.

Back on Commercial street, keeping along water's edge over a few hills returning to Wellfleet, Eastham at fork first shore and country route to Chatham. Beautiful Chatham Bars Inn on right, second turn on right is Chatham Village. Quilty's Store on left, where everything is sold, such as souvenirs, toys, candies, cigars and drugs, then straight ahead on left.

INN ON MAIN STREET.

On Main street, is the Way Side Inn, amid ideal surroundings, which offers everything desirable for the tourist or vacationist.

Going straight ahead, no turns, over new bridge to the Melrose Hotel located near the beach, and with golf links, where hospitality is extended the Cape visitor.

At end of road turn left. Mil. Hill Dancing Pavilion open all day for visitors, should you want ice cream, etc., and dancing every night. It is easily reached from any point on the Cape, is on the left as you drive, keeping straight ahead on same road to Hyannis, the city of so many shops and hotel. Also at Hyannis is Lewis Bay Lodge, situated at an ideal location. It is always cool and near shops and centre of town; a small hotel but big in its hospitality.

HAS GUNNING CAMP.

On South highway in Hyannis is the admirable place for touring parties, the Hyannis Inn. Meals are served on the European plan.

In the residential section of Hyannis is the famous Eagleston Inn. Specializing in chicken and lobster dinners for which the Inn is famous. Straight ahead at fork in road.

Straight ahead. At fork to left straight ahead through Centerville and Osterville. At end of road turn left through Cotuit. At square and four corners turn right to Waquoit Post Office on left, straight on and turn left East Falmouth at fork in road left turn up grade. Passing Teaticket P. O. on right, bear right following blue bands to Falmouth Heights.

On a high bluff at Falmouth Heights is the Terrace Gables, situated at one of the most attractive points on Cape Cod, where you can view from its spacious piazza a magnificent outlook over Vineyard Sound.

Terrace Gables has gained much renown for the excellence of its cuisine, purchasing nothing but the best of heavy beef from Armour & Company of Boston, and its fresh vegetables from the native farms. Sea bathing is enjoyed to perfection.

Leaving Falmouth, keep straight ahead at square, turn left, crossing railroad tracks down grade to Woods Hole. At fork to road keep right for Penance garage, where ample parking space and fire-proof garage; also the convenience of the tourist while at Oak Bluffs or Nantucket. Returning to same main road just at top of up grade straight road to Falmouth bearing left on the outskirts of Falmouth with direct straight road to Catamnet three corners.

BAD CURVE.

Left turn down grade to Pocasset, keeping straight ahead at four corners, cross bridge (bad curve) straight on to Monument Beach.

The beauties of Monument Beach as a Summer resort have been recognized by many prominent people. At the beach the Norcross Hotel, under the ownership of F. A. Crowley, is situated on the brink of the water's edge, the broad piazza extending right out on the water overlooking Buzzard's Bay. It is also located that the prevailing winds keep it always a cool spot.

Leaving the Norcross Hotel over railroad tracks, turn left, passing Crump Garage, on right.

Straight ahead at four corners and sign post direct sharp left turn and over Canal bridge to Bournehurst. Take right turn to Bournehurst dancing pavilion, considered one of the best attractions on the Cape, centrally located, easily reached from Boston and all points of the Cape.

Mr. Burrows has constructed a fine pavilion. With the hundreds of scintillating lights, highly polished floor and real dance music, one can enjoy dancing to perfection.

Back to main road keeping straight through East Wareham and Wareham through Middleboro to Bridgewater. Here you will find construction work under way and a short piece of road in bad condition. Go straight ahead through Brockton, Randolph, Milton, Mattapan and Boston, back to Brunswick Hotel, where you will enjoy the excellent foods served at the Brunswick Cafeteria. It offers a complete and extensive hotel bill-of-fare with all the economy and convenience of self-service. Ideally located on Copley square, beautifully decorated and refreshingly cool and restful on hot days, this unusual cafeteria is the universal favorite of everyone who knows Boston.

CIRCUS MOVES ON BOSTON TOMORROW

Hoop-la! Just a few hours more and then it will be here—the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth.

Can't be any mistake about it. There will be "Rajah," the world's only wrestling tiger, and thirty others of his kind; eight baby elephants who vie in performance with herds of adult pachyderms; 200 performing horses, and four times that many men and women champions—all exactly as has been pictured on flaming posters or told of in the newspapers for weeks past.

Yes siree! Those, and no telling how many hundreds of other wonders are all scheduled to arrive tomorrow noon on one hundred double-strength railroad cars coming from Schenectady over the Boston & Albany tracks.

Railway officials figure that the first train—"the flying squadron"—will reach the suburban street yard limits about noon Sunday. Unloading will begin immediately and the long cavalcade of red wagons, golden chariots, heavily loaded vans, dens, and all the paraphernalia will be moved from the trains to the old show grounds on Huntington avenue. Those who gather to watch the circus will see more than forty elephants and catch a glimpse of such remarkable features as six giraffes, Knecht, the world's smallest horse, and an entire family of hippopotami.

It is such features as this that make necessary a new menagerie tent, which is as large as the "big top" of previous seasons. As for the main tent of 1923, it is the biggest ever constructed. Indeed, the paraphernalia and properties of this circus are of such weight and size that all of Sunday afternoon and Monday morning will be given over to the task of putting them in place. Because of this, the street parade is no longer given—the "horse and man power" being concentrated on the job of making ready for the initial performance.

COHEN NEWLYWEDS TO TOUR TO COAST

Two newly wed couples, each to be known as Mr. and Mrs. Cohen, will spend their honeymoons in transcontinental automobile trips. Neither of the couples know the other, nor were they aware of each other's honeymoon plans. One of the couples, David H. Cohen, a student at Harvard Dent 1 College, and Miss Bertha Radio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel B. Radio, of No. 52 Goodale road, Mattapan, will be married Sunday evening, June 24. They will make their home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Chequesset Inn, Wellfleet.

BEACH GIRLS IN MONSTER CARNIVAL

LILY LEITZEL

Daring performer with Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Listen, girls, there's a chance for you to get into the movies, if you don your snappiest bathing costume and enroll among the group of girls to appear in the big carnival at Nantasket Beach next Monday, the 18th Scouts from several of the big producing companies will be on hand to look over the girls, and it is rumored that many of them will be given tryouts before the camera. Just write, phone or call at the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company, 7 Rowe's Wharf, Boston, and get listed among the entries for the big affair.

"Smiling" Jack McGoven and Virginia O'Brien, both of George M. Cohan's "Rise of Rosie O'Reilly" show now playing at the Tremont, have been selected as judges, and their thousands of admirers will be on hand to see them pick the winners.

In addition to the bathing contest there will be an added feature in the form of a fashion show, in which gowns of latest mode direct from Paris and more than $100,000 worth of summer furs will be shown. The winners will be selected at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the prizes will be awarded in the evening at Paragon Park.

VETERANS CONDEMN KU KLUX KLAN

Amherst Head Is Scored as "Pacifist"

VETS RAP MASKED SOCIETIES

Condemn Klanism in Resolutions Adopted at State House Today

Resolutions interpreted as aimed at the Ku Klux Klan were unanimously adopted by delegates to the annual convention of the Massachusetts Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the State House today.

Brigadier General John H. Durn, presiding officer, read he resolution as follows:

"We condemn any organization that permits its members to appear in the presence of the flag of the United States with masked faces."

In the preamble to the resolution it was declared that the flag should at all times be accorded the highest honor and respect and it was further suggested that certain organizations were not giving the national emblem such tribute.

OPPOSE MOVING BUREAU

Copies of the resolution were sent to President Harding, Governor Cox and Mayor Curley.

A resolution criticizing as unwise the proposed removal of the local veteran's bureau from the city proper to the South Boston army base was adopted.

It was voted that the convention was in favor of the removal of the property tax on the sale of the United States flag; that no commissions should be paid for the sale of poppies by representatives of the organization; that no discrimination be shown any member because of color.

The veterans voted condemnation of the exploitation of the organization by manufacturers of foreign goods as was reported recently in the sale of German-made wreaths to departments of the organization in the Middle West.

WILL ADMIT WOMEN

It was voted to admit women to membership providing they qualify as to service in foreign countries.

The convention refused to lower the standard of membership to admit persons not having seen service outside the continental limits of the United States.

It requested all public officials to abide by the civil service rules providing preference to veterans.

At noon the convention adjourned for the afternoon parade through downtown streets, following which the delegates attended the Red Sox-Detroit ball game.

Tomorrow will be a busy day for the convention. In the morning the veterans will attend special church services. A business session with election of officers will follow and, in the evening, comes the convention banquet in Mechanics Hall.

Participation in the Bunker Hill Day celebration in Charlestown Monday will close the convention.

LYNN BOY KILLED BY COUGHING FIT

Lynn, June 16.—Herbert Patterson, twelve year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, No. 127 Chatham street, died suddenly at his home after a severe coughing, which seized him in his sleep. Physicians said the cough weakened his heart.

Manicure Girl Has Vanished

GRACE A. TRUDEAU

Miss Grace Anna Trudeau, eighteen years old, a manicurist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trudeau of No. 207 Shawmut avenue, South End, has been kidnaped.

This is the belief of the girl's mother, who has appealed to the police to find the girl, mysteriously missing from her home since Wednesday night.

"It is a woman's intuition that tells me that my daughter has been kidnaped," said Mrs. Trudeau. "Grace had her old clothes on. She never would have gone away dressed in her old clothing.

"Many men are patrons of the manicuring parlor. I fear that one of these men has become attracted to my daughter.

"At first we did not think of kidnaping. We thought Grace had been the victim of an automobile accident. But I have canvassed all the hospitals in Greater Boston and can find no trace of her."

Tuesday night Miss Trudeau entertained a group of friends at a party in her home. She made an appointment to meet a cousin, Miss Irene Bouche, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

A few minutes before 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, she stepped from the house across the street to a lunch room, and after conversing a while with Miss Arline Cummings, a waitress, left the establishment.

She returned to the restaurant soon before midnight and talked with Thomas Cummings, the waitress' father, and then left. She has not been seen since.

SEES NO CONFLICT IN SCIENCE, RELIGION

Chicago, June 16.—There is no conflict between science and religion, the Most Rev. William Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, declared in an address at commencement exercises of De Paul University.

"Among scientists and churchmen of the Roman Catholic faith," he said, "there never has been a dispute regarding the merits of scientific discoveries as they affect religion. Educated persons throughout the world have known this for years. It is only among the illiterate the notion prevails that science and religion are in conflict."

SHIP BOARD DISCHARGES CAPTAIN

Pillsbury Goes, Following U.S. Inquiry Into Rum-Running Scandal Here.

Captain Edwin H. Pillsbury, superintendent of piers at the South Boston Army Base, was dismissed by the Shipping Board following a Federal investigation of rum running charges, and of his wife's sensational divorce suit allegations.

Telegraphic orders from Washington announced Pillsbury's discharge and the appointment of Hugh F. Donnelly to succeed him. Donnelly has been associated with the operating department of the Shipping Board office here.

Pillsbury had charge of Shipping Board vessels entering the Port of Boston.

Following charges of rum running, Special Agent Joseph Norton was detailed to investigate. The report of the investigation was not made public, but it is known that it was not long on file when orders came for Pillsbury's removal.

Federal authorities were also concerned over details of Pillsbury's divorce this Spring, which involved an alleged informal and intimate Sunday breakfast with Miss Maud A. Berrigan.

Telegraph Briefs

New York—The Rev. Helen Ulrich, assistant pastor of the Church of the Divine Paternity, has been called to the Universalist Church in Gorham, N. H.

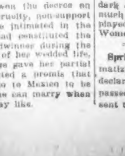
New York—The United States Shipping Board has selected "The Merry Go Round" as one of the feature films on the program for the entertainment of guests on the trip of the Leviathan. Carl Laemmle, president, and R. H. Cochrane, vice-president of Universal Pictures, expect to be aboard the liner.

Ottawa—Legislation covering 29 construction projects on the Canadian National Railway will be in the House today, including $3,500,000 for extending the Sunnybrae branch to Guysboro, N. S., and $1,250,000 for a line from Medulle, N. B., to the international boundary.

Sherbrooke, Que.—Damage estimated at over $500,000 was the result of a fire in the main mill of the Asbestos Corporation at Thetford mines.

GLADYS WALTON GETS ABSOLUTE FREEDOM

New York, June 16.—After a year of waiting, Gladys Walton, motion picture actress, has shaken off the legal shackles that formerly bound her to Frank H. Liddell, Jr. Word was received by her friends in New York today that the interlocutory decree granted to her at Los Angeles in May, 1923, has just been made an absolute decree.



Gladys Walton

Miss Walton won the decree on the grounds of cruelty, non-support and neglect. She intimated in the trial that she had constituted the sole family breadwinner during the fourteen months of her wedded life.

When the judge gave her partial freedom he exacted a promise that she would not go to Mexico to be married. Now she can marry when and where she may like.

HER SON BEATEN; WIFE ASKS FOR DIVORCE

MRS. PEARL C. DE JONY

Mrs. Pearl Camille de Jony of Wollaston appeared before Judge Sanderson in Suffolk Superior Court seeking custody of her son, Andor de Jony, five years old, pending the outcome of her suit for divorce from her husband, Andor. She alleges cruel and allusive treatment.

Judge Sanderson requested Attorney W. Jennings Patron, counsel for the wife, and Senator John Gibbs, for de Jony, to arrange equal custody of the boy.

Mrs. de Jony told the court her husband whipped the boy for childish offenses. She admitted that she had used a hair-brush on the boy.

They were married in Boston on August 16, 1917, and Andor was born on August 17, 1918.

The husband is stopping with relatives on a farm at Bellingham. The mother objected to having her son live on this farm with his paternal grandmother, because the grandmother "had queer ideas."

MRS. CONVERSE TO ACT IN HER OWN MOVIE

New York, June 16.—Emulating Lady Diana Manners, now Lady Duff Cooper, Mrs. James V. Converse, twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, and daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, consul general to Brussels and high commissioner to Belgium, is to form her own motion picture corporation and be the principal actress in the productions. The new producing company will be known as the Thelma Morgan Pictures, Inc., and will be capitalized at $100,000. Others interested in the venture with Mrs. Converse are Malcolm Strauss, the artist and photoplay producer; Charles Presbrey and William Churchill.

Mrs. Converse, who will not be eighteen years old until next August, is about five feet seven inches tall. She is graceful, with dark eyes and hair. In fact she is much like her sister, recently she played a small part in "Enemies of Women."

BULLET KILLED MARGARET LINDSAY

St. John's, N. F., June 16.—A bullet wound has been found in the body of Miss Margaret Lindsay of Montreal, a mission worker, whose remains were found in the woods near Cartwright Harbor.

The autopsy performed on the body here revealed a bullet in the brain. Shortly after the autopsy was performed the Newfoundland government sent a message from Battle Harbor, Southern Labrador, to hold an investigation into the girl's death.

The magistrate leads the trip by dog team. As soon as navigation begins, it was announced, the government will investigate the matter thoroughly. Due to severe ice conditions the coast of Labrador is still practically inaccessible.

The girl's body was brought here by steamship from Battle Harbor, Labrador, where it had been taken from Cartwright by dog team. It will be sent to Montreal.

ORDER TIES UP FUNDS IN TRAYES-CARD SUIT

Mrs. Helen L. Trayes of Mansfield is restrained from disposing of proceeds of the securities claimed by Mrs. Mary J. Card of Mansfield, in an injunction granted by Judge Pierce of the Superior Court. Mrs. Card is seeking the return of $85,000 in a suit brought against Mrs. Trayes and two Boston attorneys, Clarence A. Barnes and Howard F. Butler.

27 Faculty Members Favor Ousting of Dr. Meiklejohn in College Row

The enemies of President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst College today came into the open in their battle to oust him as head of the institution.

He is accused of being a Hobbist, a pacifist, a leader who prefers intellectuality over morals, and who insists on teaching men how to think rather than what to think.

The faculty is said to have lined up against him, twenty-seven members favoring his removal, while only thirteen want him to stay.

Dr. Meiklejohn's loyal friends, she are mostly undergraduates at Amherst, in the senolor and junio classes, are growing more and more bitter, and fear is expressed that some of the bolder and more reckless spirits among the seniors will run the course to commencement by some drastic action.

ALUMNI WITH FACULTY.

Of the thirteen faculty members counted as Dr. Meiklejohn's partisans only six are said to be willing to stand by him to the finish.

The alumni, so far as spokesmen for this body has been heard from, seem to be lining up with the faculty and trustees against Dr. Meiklejohn.

Three prominent New York men, graduates of Amherst, have issued statements declaring Dr. Meiklejohn is unfit to head the college.

They are Harry E. Kanen, advertising manager for the "Dry Goods Economist," Lucius H. Eastman, president of Hills Brothers Company and chairman of the executive committee of the Amherst Alumni Association, and Frank Kane, manager of the United Publishers Association.

Kane quoted two statements alleged to have been made by Dr. Meiklejohn, to show that he lacks the moral quality to head a great educational institution.

He stated that Dr. Meiklejohn said to Dr. E. C. Bliss, president of Beirut College in Syria:

"I would hire a bolshevist as a teacher if he were a good teacher. I would hire anyone if he were a good teacher." To Harry E. Taylor he said: "Morality is a debatable subject. A man's moral beliefs have nothing to do with his fitness for a professorship."

Taylor said Dr. Meiklejohn opposed preparedness in this country before its entry into the World War and bitterly opposed America's entry into the war.

DEFENDS HIS IDEALS.

Dr. Meiklejohn refuses to make an official statement on the situation at Amherst, but has issued a statement of his ideals. He said:

"Nine years ago I said in an inaugural address, and I now say again, that, I believe, the function of a teacher is to stand before his pupils and before the community at large as the intellectual leader of his time. If he is not able to take that leadership he is not worthy of his calling.

"If this leadership is taken from him and given to others, then the very foundations of the scheme of instruction are shaken.

"We shall not lose principle in these hard years. A great college with great teachers—that is our dream for Amherst."

START THIS BIG, NEW STORY TODAY

Mona Penfrass, young, beautiful and the wife of a consulting engineer, has been told by her physician, Bob Osterhoud, who is in love with her, that she has only a short time to live. Mona gives a gay party, telling Pat to go to bed, but the latter borrows a sister's dress, steals downstairs and has "a taste of life." Connie goes to a dance at the club and takes too much punch. She is brought home by Fred Browning, with whom she had uneventfully spent the night. Sel Thorpe gives Pat a "real" kiss. Mona dies and Constance receives a call from Cary Scott, her mother's first admirer. Scott is much taken with Pat. A party is planned for the Dangerfield's, to christen the new swimming pool. A thunder storm puts out the lights and the guests go into the water without clothes. Dee unaccountably hesitates on the balcony and then it happens!

NOW GO ON WITH THIS ENTHRALLING STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

OVER her burst a great flood of light. Every globe in the passageway and the court back of it was sending out its pitiless rays upon her nakedness. A bisected bar of radiance shot forth into the tankroom, illuminating it from end to end. Pandemonium broke out; shrieks, floundering, catcalls, and above it all the thundering profanity of Wally Dangerfield calling down vengeance upon the fool who had played the trick. With the trained athlete's readiness of action in a crisis, Dee turned, leapt backward, tore the heavy door loose from the clamp which held it open, and slammed it.

"Saved!" yelled a gleeful voice outside.

Dee heard a short, deep, dismayed exclamation behind her. She bent forward against the closed door, her proud little head bowed against her wrists. With a click the darkness shut down again. The footsteps came toward her, but she was no longer afraid, for she had seen; she was only bitterly ashamed. Folds, cool and light, enveloped her shoulder; she smelt the odor of wet rubber and gratefully drew the long raincoat about her.

"Turn on the light, please," she directed quietly.

It flashed, intolerably to her eyes. When her vision could bear the strain she looked up and saw the man standing a few paces away with his kitbag of implements beside him.

USED BOY AS RUM-PEDLAR; APPEALS JAIL TERM AND FINE

Because he employed a fourteen-year-old boy in his alleged bootlegging business, Andrew Hood of No. 17 Haverhill street, Charlestown, got a maximum sentence in Judge Sullivan's court, Charlestown, today. The sentence was a fine of $500 and six months in jail.

The boy, John Kerrigan, of Myrtle street, Everett, nephew to Hood's wife, appeared in Juvenile Court. His case was continued one year.

In sentencing Hood Judge Sullivan said:

"Hood, your conduct in employing this little boy in your violations of the law was reprehensible. Someone ought to horsewhip you."

"NOAH'S CLIPPERS" STOLEN; "COLUMBUS' RAZOR" GONE

When S. Natale entered his barber shop on the second floor of No. 25 Fanuil Hall square today all he found in the place were the chairs and mirrors. Even his collection of antique razors, including one that Christopher Columbus shaved with, was missing. Natale complained to the police and then went to a Faneuil street supply house to lay in a new kit.

His precious antiques, including the clippers that Noah used on Shem, Ham and Japhet in the Ark, can never be replaced.

WANT JESSE MURPHY TO FINISH 6-YEAR TERM

Worcester, June 16.—Jesse Murphy will be returned to Eastern Penitentiary to serve the unexpired term of six years from which he was pardoned if the Pennsylvania authorities have their way. Governor Pinchot pardoned Murphy on that the Massachusetts authorities might try him for the murder of Ordway Hall, banker of a tea store, of which charge Murphy was acquitted.

Murphy was released from Deer Island Tuesday and was immediately brought here for arraignment in district court on the charge of escaping from the prison camp at Rutland in 1918.

WORCESTER MAN SENTENCED ON LARCENY CHARGE HERE

Hugh J. McGlade, said to be the head of the Holbrook Construction Company of Worcester, was arraigned in Municipal Court today charged with larceny of $9,000 from the International Trust Co., of Boston.

McGlade, who lives at No. 30 Orne, He appealed.

was charged with having obtained an extension on a loan by false representations, later going into bankruptcy.

Judge Lourie sentenced him to six months in the House of Correction.

UPTON SINCLAIR "VAGRANT"; HELD FOR TRIAL IN WEST

Los Angeles, June 16.—Charges of inciting a riot and addressing an unlawful assemblage, preferred recently against Upton Sinclair, author, were dismissed in the Pullen Court and a charge of vagrancy substituted.

Trial on that charge was set for June 27.

X-RAY CANCER PATIENT GAINS; FULL RECOVERY IS EXPECTED

New York, June 16 (I.N.S.).—Improvement was reported today in the condition of Miss Anna Ellin, of Spring Valley, N. Y., whose X-ray treatment for cancer was completed yesterday at Bellevue Hospital. She was subjected to 240,000 volts over periods from Wednesday to Friday morning.

Dr. L. Seth Hirsch, head of the X-ray laboratories said he was hopeful of a complete recovery. About 100 persons are undergoing the X-ray treatment for cancer at Bellevue. None of them, however, have been subjected to the drastic treatment that Miss Ellin underwent.

dressed in working garb. His face paid pallid, amazed, and beautiful.

"I never thought to see you again," he said breathlessly.

"You've seen all there is of me to see," giggled Dee with the insanity of sheer nerve-shock, and could have killed herself for hatred and fury at her untoward response.

He made no comment upon this; only looked at her with incredulous pain.

"What are you doing here?" she asked.

"Repairing the electric plant. I'm a workman. As I told you."

"I thought it was a joke."

"No." He listened to the confused sounds from beyond the door. "I seem to have been inopportune," he remarked with quiet grimness. "A swimming party, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"More or less informal, I judge."

Dee felt a hot wave submerging her. "You could see for yourself."

"Quite so. You were on your way to join it?"

"Yes, I was," she retorted defiantly but with an incredible inclination to weep.

"Pray don't let me detain you."

"Please," whispered Dee.

His face changed. He took a step toward her, and stopped.

A shriek, too authentic in its terror to be misinterpreted, penetrated the heavy door, followed by a babel.

"Turn on that light!" "Open the door." "No! No!" "She's drowned, I tell you." "Damn it, where's that switch?"

The electrician threw the door open, made a quick movement along the wall, and every detail of the scene leapt forth into bold significance. The women were huddled along the side of the pool all except plump Mrs. Grant who was absurdly striving to draw an end of the net about her, and Sally Dangerfield who was bending above the slim, motionless nudity of Vicey Carson, stretched along the stairs.

"I stepped on her," wailed Sally. "She was lying on the bottom."

Half of the men had scattered for their clothes. The others stood shamed and uncertain, except Cary Scott. In the face of reality in this calamitous form he had remembered an early emergency regimen, thrown himself down beside the woman, and with lips pressed to her inanimate mouth was striving to stimulate her flaccid lungs to induce breathing. Desisting for a moment he called:

"She's alive, I think. Get a doctor."

"Phone for Osterhout, somebody," shouted Dangerfield.

"Wire's down," groaned Grant.

"Then get a car and go like hell!"

"My car is outside," said the electrician. "Where am I to go?"

"I'll show you," said Dee. "Quick!"

Together they darted into the night. Crossing the pebbled courtyard, Dee involuntarily cried out.

"What is it?" he demanded.

"My foot. I forgot I had no shoes. It doesn't matter. Go on."

He swung her strongly into his arms and did not set her down until he had reached the car, when he lifted her to the seat. It was as well that he had. Such was the yielding of her body in every nerve and muscle as he took her that she could not have stood upright.

"I Wish to God I'd Never Seen You . . . .Goodbye"

A light in Dr. Osterhout's laboratory showed him at work over some test tubes.

"Hello!" called Dee. "Come out. There's been an accident. We've got a car."

In less than a minute they were retracing their course at wild speed, the electrician driving with consummate control while Dee acquainted Osterhout with the main facts. As they came to a stop in the yard Dee turned to the volunteer chauffeur.

"Will you wait for me?" she asked in a tone that made Osterhout turn to look at her.

"Yes."

Within they found the victim violently ill in the midst of a half-dressed and vastly relieved group.

"None the worse for it," Osterhout reported to Dee after attending the victim. "A little too much water for comfort. And something besides water, wasn't there?"

"Yes."

"A good deal of it?"

"Plenty for all hands."

"A rough party?"

"About the usual, at this house."

"Don't you think you're out of place in that gallery, Dee?"

"Oh, don't lecture me, Bobs," said the girl wearily. "I'm through." But it was another, not Bobs, who was the inspiration of that resolve.

To the other, patient in the sighing darkness, she returned. "She's not and a dreamer then. I remember now. I heard that his branch of the family went broke."

"Where did you know him, Dee?" asked Osterhout.

"Oh. It's a long story, Bobs," said the girl lightly.

Herein she said what was not true. It was a short story; short and vivid and bewildering. In the darkness she ran over the whole scope of it, every detail as clear as if it had not occurred nearly a year before; the breakdown of her motor car in the open country near Rahway; the stranger on the bank of a stream who had put down his rod and come to her aid, a roughly dressed stranger with questing eyes and a quaint turn of speech; the long and patient tinkering with the mechanism, ending in a second collapse; the luncheon offered and shared, the talk that followed a long, long talk such as Dee had never before known, running through luminous hours, touching all the realms of fancy until the incredulous sun turned his face from them and went down; the drive back to the village, where on the brink of his final words, "I am resisting an intolerable temptation when I say no more than good-bye and thank you," and then nothing until now.

Scott's voice broke in upon her meditations. "I must find out where he is."

"Not the slightest," he agreed dolorously. "Good-bye."

She turned and went into the building.

As Dr. Osterhout had no car, Scott and Dee drove him back to his place.

"Who was your friend in the service car, Dee?" asked the physician.

"His name is Wollaston."

Cary Scott gave a start. "Wollaston! You know, I thought I caught a glimpse—— Then I supposed that my eyes had gone wrong in the sudden light. He was in working clothes, wasn't he?"

"Yes. He was the electrician from the plant."

"Stanley Wollaston? Electrician? It can't be the same."

"It is. He recognized you and said that he used to know you."

"Know me! Good God! I should say so! We were in hospital together for weeks in the war. Afterwards I visited him at their place in Hertfordshire. He was a poet and a dreamer then. I remember now. I heard that his branch of the family went broke."

"Where did you know him, Dee?" asked Osterhout.

"Oh. It's a long story, Bobs," said the girl lightly.

Herein she said what was not true. It was a short story; short and vivid and bewildering. In the darkness she ran over the whole scope of it, every detail as clear as if it had not occurred nearly a year before; the breakdown of her motor car in the open country near Rahway; the stranger on the bank of a stream who had put down his rod and come to her aid, a roughly dressed stranger with questing eyes and a quaint turn of speech; the long and patient tinkering with the mechanism, ending in a second collapse; the luncheon offered and shared, the talk that followed a long, long talk such as Dee had never before known, running through luminous hours, touching all the realms of fancy until the incredulous sun turned his face from them and went down; the drive back to the village, where on the brink of his final words, "I am resisting an intolerable temptation when I say no more than good-bye and thank you," and then nothing until now.

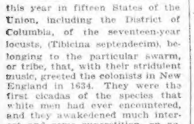
Intimately Revealing the Life of a Modern and Precocious Society Flapper

THE 17-YEAR LOCUST

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

THE authorities in Washington announce the reappearance this year in fifteen States of the Union, including the District of Columbia, of the seventeen-year locusts, (Tibicina septendecim), belonging to the particular swarm, or tribe, that, with their stridulent music, greeted the colonists in New England in 1634. They were the first cicadas of the species that white men had ever encountered, and they awakedened much interest and some superstition, on account of the "W" mark on the wings, which mystics still interpret as the initial of the god of war.



The 17-YEAR LOCUST

The division of these insects in the United States into some thirty different swarms, or broods, each appearing in a particular year and confined to a relatively narrow range, or locality, is one of the most peculiar facts about them. Although the periodical appearance of each of the swarms are separated by either thirteen or seventeen years, yet they are so distributed that some occur some where in the country, every year.

This year's swarms, the odd colonly locusts, will be seen in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. These are the real seventeen-year variety. Why they should be scattered in separate States nobody knows. They do not even cover the entire area of any State in which they do appear.

It has been affirmed that these insects are the most wonderful members of the insect order. They live nearly seventeen years underground, grubbing among roots, and then for about a month dwell in a winged form in the outer world. It is the males who play the music, which is created by the vibration of tense membrances on the under side of the body. It is said that the males never eat; perhaps they are so devoted to their music that they never think of eating.

One very curious thing in the life history of these insects is the way in which they change their skin after having risen from the ground. They climb lumberingly up the trunk of the tree on whose roots they have been feeding, and fixing themselves firmly to the bark with their claws, wait for their membranous carapace to split open along the back. Then the insect, not greatly changed in appearance, except that now it is furnished with wings, emerges, leaving the dried shell, which retains its form, attached to the bark.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

THERE are some delightful stories in Mr. Douglas Ainsle's "Adventures, Social and Literary," about the great Lord Salisbury as to his immense capacity for failing to recognize even those with whom he was in daily contact. A neighboring squire dropped in to luncheon: "Lady Salisbury was rather apprehensive that her husband might fail to recognize this somewhat obscure person, and was greatly relieved to find when Lord Salisbury entered the dining room, a little later, that he immediately engaged their homespun guest in conversation, which he kept up vigorously till the end of the repast, when the squire rather hastily took his leave. Lord Salisbury then cordially remarked, 'I was glad Lord Roberts dropped in to luncheon today; but I fear he is not what he was intellectually. He appeared to me to be remarkably vague as to our military dispositions in Egypt, and his views on Indian questions seemed even more nebulous. But we all grow older.' I believe that it was thought advisable not to disillusionize him as to the identity of his late guest."

A romantic savvy is told concerning Lord Kelvin's marriage. When the famous scientist was on his schooner yacht, Lala Rookh, in West Indian waters, he got up a system of simplifying the methods of signaling at sea. He asked Miss Crum, whom he greatly admired, and who was the daughter of his host, if she understood his code. She said she did. "If I sent you a signal," he asked, "from my yacht, do you think you could read it and could answer?" "Well, I would try," she responded. The signal was sent, and she did succeed in making it out and in transmitting the reply. The question was, "Will you marry me?" and the answer was "Yes."

FURNITURE IN HOME

—By Marian Moore—

ANY flapper between eight and eighty would welcome a dressing table like this one. It is dainty enough to thrill any feminine heart and sturdy enough to meet every-day requirements for a lifetime.

The dressing table is a modern adaptation of a French design, having the elaborate rococo ornamentation of that period toned down to a simple gilt decoration at the sides of the doors and at the bottom of the side mirrors. The basic material is rosewood, panded with lighter-grained wood.

Showing French Influence.

A rosewood bench, with a cane seat, is a handsome companion piece, being likewise decorated with hand-painted flowers forming a delightful group that, while being highly decorative, conveys not the slightest suspicion of vulgarity.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The taximeter is by no means a modern idea. An old drawing published in 1678 shows an attachment to the axle of a carriage which registered the distance traveled.

Cinema theatres in Java are so constructed that the screen divides them into two parts, the Europeans sitting on the side from which the picture is produced and the natives on the other.

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

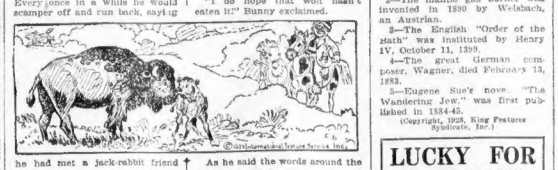
FRIGHTENED MOTHER SAVES HER BABY

"LET'S ride over and see the new baby buffalo," Baby said to me one morning while we were out on a ranch in Nebraska.

"That will be fine!" I agreed. "I certainly hope it lives to grow up, because there are so few buffaloes. They are so scarce that it is a fine thing to see them growing in numbers."

So we got on our horses and rode across the plains to the place where we thought the buffalo and her baby might be.

Bunny hopped out of my pocket and rode alongside of our horses. Every once in a while he would scamper off and run back, saying he had met a jack-rabbit friend of his.



©by International Feature Service, Inc.

As he came back from one of his visits with a rabbit, Bunny said:

"All the jack-rabbits decare there is a very bad wolf around here, and they all hope you'll scare him away. They've been frightened by him several times lately."

We rode along. It was a lovely day and I thought how pretty the sun looked shining on the red clay. The green grass and yellow flowers in some places looked as if they had just been painted on the earth.

All of a sudden, Bunny called, "Pick me up, Foxy Grandpa, I want to get in your pocket."

"What's the matter, Bunny?" I asked. "Are you getting tired?"

"No, I'm not getting tired," he answered nervously as I reached down, lifted him up and slipped him into my pocket. "I heard a noise I didn't like."

"What kind of a noise?" I asked.

But he didn't have to answer me. For that very moment I heard a howl which you could never mistake if you have ever heard it—it was the howl of a hungry wolf.

I felt in my belt for my revolver. I wouldn't have killed the rascal, but I just thought I'd get near him that I would fire a few shots and scare him to death so that he would leave Bunny's relatives alone.

We rode on. The noise grew louder and louder. The wolf by his howling—occasionally changed to sharp barks—was evidently near something to eat. It sounded eager!

Now we were almost upon him. I urged my horse onward so that I migh get close enough to frighten him.

We passed a clump of high grass and there huddled up against the brush was the mother buffalo!

"Where's her baby?" Bobby asked, excitedly, for we couldn't see him.

"I do hope that wolf hasn't eaten it!" Bunny exclaimed.

As he said the words around the other side of the bushes plunged the wolf and made a flying leap in the direction of the buffalo. I whipped out my gun and fired a couple of shots in the air above the wolf. He gave one jump, turned around like a flash, and ran off as fast as his legs would carry him.

Then we rode up to the buffalo. Bunny was just about to ask her where her baby was, when, much to our surprise, a little mound of what we thought was red clay rose up from the ground and walked over to the buffalo. It was her baby covered with red mud!

When the mother buffalo had heard the wolf she had made her little one roll in the mud so that it would look like the ground and the wolf would not see it!

BITS OF WISDOM

Will-power is not a thing one can suddenly decree oneself to possess. It must be built up imperceptibly and laboriously out of a succession of small efforts to meet definite objects.

Happiness is engendered by sympathy, love, cheerfulness, courage. It is born, perhaps most often of all, of service. This is a very old philosophy, but it will last longer than the new.

LUCKY FOR ROMANCE

UNTIL late in the afternoon, this is a doubtful day, according to astrology. The evening of the day is a most auspicious time to meet distinguished persons and to seek their favor. Also it is a fortunate time to make new acquaintances and for starting romances that will be successful. There is a maiefic influence which causes envy and subsequent unhappiness for the person acting upon this motive.

MRS. HINCKLEY NERVOUS WRECK

Tells How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sleep a wink without resting. I could not do my work although I did little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day someone threw your little book over my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I sent for it and got six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took Lydia E. THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner with Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Betty speaks to Anne about Ralph's fondness for the latter.

By Ann Lisle

Phoebe asked me to cherish Ralph. I told him gave me an awful thing. But I shook it off and turned from the office to the desk where Phoebe was waiting.

Phoebe and Neal and I had a wonderful evening. If I do not fall in the world and the people the conquered and classmates and devoted Neal I am for Phoebe will become my friends. We were talking deep into the night when Neal looked at his watch and declared he must go home. Neal and I both asked Ralph Lacy, who had come to be one of the party, to stay.

"I can't," he said. "It's a wonder I can get off now and take it as you do."

I moved to walk, and at once a definite feel between us to be made on his saddle.

"I hoped your visit coming for a while has did it."

"Phoebe, I need you, coming," I said. She and Neal have been very into their hearts and lives.

I was acknowledged to become a part of a school group. I am so grateful for it. Your friends are my friends now. Neal and Phoebe are like a dear young brother and sister. I'm worn into you, so here it is. In the beginning every one took me at your solicitation. I go out of a world that was nothing but business and clubs and into a world that's warm and homey. You did that."

A Dogged Reply

"Are you thanking me for doing you and for the present belief that every one who meets you also manages to tell me you?" I asked trying to turn it off this way.

I am thanking you for what you are. Anne. Mrs. calls my social position be and goggedly. "I am trying you that the fine friends which have come to me and the splendid companionship we are going to you. But these very blessings—complicate matters."

"I don't follow," I said.

"You did and I must make you," he pressed painfully. "The other evening when I told you that you are and always will be—indeed, I meant to tell you what strings pull from reverence. I know I'm nothing to you. I know I never be. You wouldn't be the wonderful woman I respect if I expected even a little you couldn't give in a way equally to Jim. You know that, don't you, Anne?"

"I know it," I answered, recognizing deep in my heart that this man was having his soul because of a new conviction that to do so was right and honest.

"Once upon a time a decent man from himself in my position would have gone off to Australia, his secret with him. It's called hardship. Do you think I'm—what I ought to do now."

I know you would think like a brave man. think it the best. I first thing to do. I replied confidence I'd make pretty soon and find it all a dream.

We are friends," I said in turn. You've proved your friendship for me. I think now you're idealizing me. I'll be sure you're a boy and engineer as well as a successful business man, but I know that I haven't deliberately exaggerated my importance to you. I know we belong in the thing you're trying about. And if to talk about it I have it done."

I know that," I answered. "I never have brought this up but I felt it would be avoided. You are with me, don't you?"

I know I'm a pure in this."

I came to Phoebe's to—meet you," answered Ralph Lacy quietly. "Because Rosa Cordova made me want to I must—"

"Rosa!" I gasped.

She sensed my feelings. She knows."

"She told me today not to throw away your friendship," I remembered.

She to I me today—you'll need it soon," he said quietly.

"You don't trust her. Nor do I," I said. "You realize that she's careful of—talking. You see her assets for making mischief. And when you began talking about complications, you were thinking how hard it would be to stop seeing each other because our paths were separated by—"

Precisely," answered Ralph Lacy relievedly. It means you are going to leave out. To see Phoebe occasionally, but be free of the Rosa Cordovas. I feel that it's better for you to have me drift out of your world."

"You're ready to cut yourself off from the friends you love, to give up all the new happiness and regard that's come to you so I may be protected from — malicious thoughts. I brought out aloud.

"Rosa Cordova is a dangerous woman answered Ralph quietly. I wish her. She shan't harm you. Least of all shall she harm you through me."

"It's to me that—we must avoid each other," I said slowly. "But you must promise me you'll go on seeing Jeanie and Pat and Phoebe and Neal and the others who mean so much to you."

I will if it doesn't hurt you," he replied.

Wants Friendship

"No one has ever thought of me—and of me only before." I confessed. "It startling me. I'd like this friendship to be on a fair and square footing. I don't want to cost you too much."

"But," started Ralph Lacy. "You mustn't see me. A woman like Rosa might twist things so our friendship would cost you everything."

I turned my head away to hide the fact that my eyes were full of tears. There was no answer to this.

SAVINGS ON A BUDGET

—By Loretto C. Lynch—

A Recognized Authority on All Matters Pertaining to Household Management

THE following budget is sent in by a reader who says she has adopted it after a three year trial. She writes:

"My husband gives me $200 net each Monday. Out of this I put aside $15 a month in building and loan and into a savings fund I put $... and $10 into an insurance policy. But with it all, we have most of the comforts of home and quite a few of the luxuries and above all, happiness and contentment.

"This is how I divide the money. Rent, $45; food, $50; operating, $1...; clothing, $40; advancement, $15; emergency, $10; saving, $29."

I believe that many of our young folks want to start out with too many rooms. One large studio room with a kitchenette and the use of a bath should more than satisfy the needs of the average young couple.

Again, the more the wife knows about household management—how to purchase the cheapest and serve them in a manner—the better the chance of success.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"On their own merits modest men are dumb."

Said George Coleman, the younger (1762-1836) in the epilogue to "The Heir-at-Law." Nowadays, however everyone believes it pays to advertise.

"As pure as snow."

So it is used in all languages as a symbol of purity or character. Shakespeare employs it in the above phrase in "Hamlet."

"Not lost, but gone before."

In these words Seneca, the Roman philosopher tried in an epistle to console a friend who had lost a relative.

FEATURE TODAY IS THE 2:09 PACE

By GUS DALY.

Today's feature at Combination Park, the 2:09 pace, will have a small field engaged, but what it lacks in numbers will be more than made up in speed. We look for Peter Kennedy 2:03¼, to defeat his field, for he has been going great guns and then again Joe Johnson will pilot.

Both must be good, for the fastest bunch at the track will compete. Colonel Bidwell 2:03¼, Iva Lou 2:06¼, Gam 2:0[illegible], [illegible] Hayt 2:08¾, Peter Look 2:0[illegible] and R. H. Brett 2:03¼ will take the word.

The 2:19 pace has an even dozen carded for action, a fairly well balanced field. Archibald, the Virginia horse, and the Boston mare, Ida Mack, should perform well, and they speak highly of The Sherwood, Billy Fleming's well trained pacer. Rex McKinney, formerly raced by Sam Hastings the "Hub" sportsman, is now trying to earn his oats for the Oneonta Stable of New York State.

The 2:12 trot also can boast of a splendid field. Alliewood the Great, Eva Frisco, Little Mary, Lockspur, Mauna Loa, Sakura, Rubrey Aubrey, Native Chief and Billston are some of the best entered.

Yesterday's sport was fully as enjoyable as that handed out the opening day. There was another large gathering of racing fans present when the horses took the word in the 2:19 trot. Billy Smith, the Boston horse, delivered after three heats of hard racing. The victory was popular. Anokia won the 2:12 pace in a romp, while Mr. Hoover won the 2:17 trot, after a split-up affair, from Bud Murray's Ramco. All three winners are horses which may be listed as Boston owned racers.

Sarazen Tells How to Play Golf
Body Shifts on Mashie Iron Shot

By GENE SARAZEN,
World's Champ on Golfer

I WOULD like to call your attention to the position of the hands in this stroke, the finish of the back swing with the mashie iron. Notice that they are a little above the waist.

Also note how the weight of the body has been shifted entirely from the right leg to the left leg, which is perfectly straight. See the straightness of the right arm.

Witness how the body has been thrown into the stroke. In this the right shoulder has been dipped considerably; the right knee is inclined toward the ball, and the right hip is turned in also.

You will perceive that the head is still in position and has not gone forward with the swing. Also note that the feet are in the same position they were in at the start of the swing.

The whole right side of the body has turned so as to lend power to the stroke, while the left side is in a straight line.

Horse Racing
Star Field in Carleton Stakes Today with Zev the Favorite. Mutuals Attacked in Kentucky.

By GUS DALY.

The Queens County Jockey Club, which opened yesterday with the running of the Brooklyn Handicap, bids fair to be its most successful one, both from a racing and attendance viewpoint.

Gus Daly

The best of three-year-olds, both fillies and colts, run today in the annual Carleton Stakes with $4,000 added. Zev will be the choice, but the long homestretch at Aqueduct will favor horses like Rialto, Chickvale, and Martindale, all of which are slow breakers.

Bracadale, Nellie Morse and Peter King will all come together in the Hudson Stakes for two-year-olds, and one will gain a fair idea after the race, as to which may lay claim to championship honors.

There is a clamor these days for more races of the Belmont Stake type, over the long distance, for they not alone call for a display of quality in the horses themselves, but also call for horsemanship of the very highest order, which makes a brilliant combination.

The repeal of the "mutual" betting law is to be one of the principal issues in the political campaign this Fall in Kentucky. George Colvin, Republican candidate for Governor, in a recent speech, remarked that a staunch Republican could not serve his party and the Kentucky Jockey Club at the same time.

Canada also is having a fight on her hands, or will have, at the coming election for the preservation of racing with the Pari Mutuals. A strong effort will be made to tax the sport out of existence.

The Illinois Derby, with $10,000 added, will be run July 4, at the Hawthorne track, Chicago. The meeting opens June 30. There is no law against horse racing, and whether or not the bill introduced by Senator Carlson, limiting meetings to Cook County, and Pari Mutuals to be legalized, passes, the Illinois Jockey Club is going ahead with its extensive program.

Jimmy Wilde and the Question of Age—Draw Bouts as Aid to Ring Game—High Living and Renato Gardini.

By JACK CONWAY.

Jack Conway

Jimmy Wilde, thirty-one, will try to successfully defend his title as world's flyweight champion against Pancho Villa, twenty-one, at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Monday night. Rather a difficult assignment, as Villa is one of those bounding [illegible] who is going forward every second [illegible] the ring.

Wilde has been inactive for several years. The Wilde of three or four years ago would probably not have experienced much trouble in winning over the bobbing Filipino. It is an open question, though, whether the title holder's ring inactivity has not affected his battling ability.

Jess Willard, past forty, came back and defeated Floyd Johnson. Johnny Kilbane, thirty-one, then fell by the wayside in his tussle with Eugene Criqui. Occasionally a veteran is able to laugh at Father [illegible] out of ten [illegible] with the pep [illegible] victory. [illegible] the rule of average at the Polo Grounds Monday [illegible]

[illegible] as good as [illegible]

When Jimmy Jones was awarded the decision over Eddie Shelvin at the Arena the other evening, quite a few of the fans figured the Roxbury veteran had the edge. It was one of those tussles which would have been called a draw in the days before legalized boxing in Massachusetts. Jones had a big margin in the early rounds, but Shelvin's spurt in the closing sessions about evened things up.

We never could see the logic of a rule that forbids draws. When two boxers each score an equal number of points, how can an official rightfully decide that either should be awarded the verdict?

[illegible] once an Olympic [illegible] that high living [illegible] one in athletic com[illegible] looked like a [illegible] he entered the [illegible] George Calza, Italian [illegible] Gardini made [illegible] attempts to battle [illegible] youthful opponent. [illegible] made it impos[illegible] also a great deal [illegible] attempted to be the aggressor.

Leo Pardello, Gardini's chief second, admitted that Renato has passed up strenuous work in the gym for a life of luxury and easy living.

Let the fate of Gardini be a lesson to youthful Mister Calza. The latter was a perfect physical specimen when he faced the challenger. Condition told the story in the result of the match.

Possibly Calza may not be so successful [illegible] Stanley Stasiak, Polish champion, at the Boston Arena [illegible] June 29 under the direction of the Old Howard management. Stasiak is young like Calza, also very powerful. As he abides by the rules of training, he will enter the ring prepared to give everything he has in the way of wrestling ability.

There are many fans who will figure Stasiak will win over Calza. There are thousands of others who will root for the downfall of the Polish giant. Stasiak's tremendous size and strength appear to have made him unpopular in some quarters. As unpopularity, as well as popularity, adds to an athlete's powers as a box office attraction, The Pole is not worrying about the feelings of the fans.

JOHNSTON TO MEET CREIG IN THE FINAL

By Universal Service.

London, June 16.—William "Little Bill" Johnston will meet D. M. Creig, the young British star, today in the final round for the men's tennis single championship at Kent.

Johnston defeated Leighton Crawford, the British-Indian player. Mrs. Goldthwaite surprised the spectators when she won the first set from Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory in the women's singles, 6-0. Both players appeared off form. Rain stopped the engagement, which will be resumed today.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian, came through to the final round and defeated Mrs. Edgington 9-7, 6-3, in an interesting court battle.

CRIQUI SHOWS AT PROVIDENCE

Eugene Criqui, world's featherweight champion, will appear at Kingsley Park, Providence, R. I., today.

His opponent will be Leon Poutet of Belgium and the contest will be a 4 round bout.

The appearance of the French champion has aroused considerable interest in Providence and a large crowd is expected.

Harry Martin of Providence will tackle Young (Bud) Dempsey in a 10-round bout and two other 10-round bouts are also on the card.

The show will be held under the auspices of The Veterans of Foreign Wars.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE WILDE AND VILLA GO

New York, June 16.—[illegible] is set at the Polo Grounds for [illegible] handling of the [illegible] crowd [illegible] ever witnessed a [illegible] night in New York [illegible] ever assembled in New York [illegible] any occasion—when Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa [illegible] for the world's flyweight title next Monday.

The new lighting system has been installed and will be given a test tonight. It will flood every nook and corner of the arena, and all the aisles and exits. When the bell rings for action in the ring all the lights, with the exception of the heavy arcs over the squared circle will be automatically dimmed.

The advance sale of reserved seats continues to be unusually large. The field sections, selling at $15 top, are in great demand, but there has also been a big call for the $10, $7 and $4 seats. More than 35,000 seats at $3 and $2 will be placed on sale at the grounds at 6 o'clock on Monday night. The entire upper stand seats will sell at $3.

500 SPECIAL POLICE TO AID FANS AT SHOW

In addition to the city police, both afoot and mounted, there will be 500 special policemen and 200 ushers to see that every ticket holder gets the seat called for by his ticket, and to guide the crowd to the grand stand seats.

The first bout, four rounds, between Al Felder and Jack Snyder, will start at 8 o'clock. The second bout, six rounds, will be a clash between Joe Donley and Henry Catena. The third bout, six rounds, will be between Charley Goodman and Mike Ballerino. The semi-final of ten rounds will bring together [illegible] and Harry Gordon. The championship contest will start at [illegible] [illegible] will meet [illegible] of New York in [illegible] to the Jimmy Wilde-Pancho Villa championship contest at the Polo Grounds next Monday night.

CONVERSE NINE IN DIAMOND TILT

The Converse [illegible] will be the opponent of the Medford [illegible] on the [illegible] grounds, [illegible] street, Medford, this afternoon. Medford will have tough opposition with the team from Malden, as the Converse management have secured every available ball player in sight.

Nathan Thumin

Nat Thumin will hustle either Prior or Mathews to the mound, while Ike K[illegible] will more than likely do the [illegible] for the Converse team.

FRANKIE EDWARDS TO BATTLE GARCIA

Bobby Garcia, the army featherweight champion, whom Jimmy Bronson is grooming for a crack at Eugene Criqui's title, will make his metropolitan debut as a professional when he stacks up against Frankie Edwards in one of the two twelves on the same card with Pete Zivic and Jack Sharkey at the Queensboro Stadium, in Long Island City, next Tuesday night.

Bronson believes that in Garcia he has the best lad of his weight to be found anywhere in the world. Garcia is a smashing, two-fisted fighter and proved his merit when he boxed at the soldiers and sailors' championship contests at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory early this year, easily knocking out his opponent.

Elect Hammill Captain

John B. Hammill, Jr., has been elected captain of the Watertown High School baseball team for the year 1924. During the past year he played second base in excellent style. It was his first year on a high school team.

BROWN NEEDS NEW PLANT

Brown University men are anxious for work to begin on the new athletic plant at Providence, for with only one gridiron available the task of developing freshman and varsity teams would prove difficult.

SPORTING BOSTON AMERICAN

THE WINNER LOST

Man's faith in man was given quite a severe jolt in Gotham when the bookies failed to pay of the Zev backers in the Kentucky Derby. Realizing nothing when your 19 to 1 shot wins is not invigorating.

FRAZEE GETS HIS PRICE FOR THE RED SOX TEAM

BIG MONEY DEMANDS ALL MET

The Red Sox are sold, really and truly.

Handsome Harry Frazee, the president of the club, admits it. The price is about a million and a quarter, maybe $1,100,000, but not any lower than that and maybe not so high as $1,200,000, and probably between those figures.

The Columbus syndicate, which will be headed by James A. "Bobby" Quinn, has agreed to Frazee's price. Harry declared always he would not sell for less than a million.

If the sale includes the property as well as the franchise and players, it isn't a bad bargain for the Fenway Park property is much more valuable than it was in 1922 when the grounds were purchased for the American League Club, and the Fenway property improved with the grandstand and other buildings of the baseball park.

Frazee admits that from his angle and from his viewpoint, the price is O. K. The Columbus financiers have been quoted to the same effect.

It is rumored that the deal would be made here now but for the fact that "Bobby" Quinn cannot get away from the St. Louis Browns, for whom he acts as business manager. Owner Phil Ball has other business interests, and does not know much about the ins and outs of the complicated baseball machinery at which Quinn is a past master.

However, Frazee says that there is nothing in writing and that the Columbus syndicate can back out. He also declares that he does not care whether the syndicate revokes on the deal. It looks as if his club might make money again this year, possibly not nearly so much as in 1921 when he cleaned up close to a quarter of a million.

Frazee is in town.

That makes it look sure that the sale is accomplished.

He doesn't deny it.

That makes it unanimous.

He said that the Columbus gentlemen have a barrel of dough and are anxious to get back into baseball. Some years ago they sold out their Columbus club; lock, stock and barrel, grounds and franchise and everything to Tom Wilson, the big sporting goods manufacturer and packer, who was anxious to buy a club for Joe Tinker.

But ever since they regretted the move and now they see a chance to get back into the game.

LAWRENCE EAGLES BEATEN BY LEGION

Lawrence, June 16.—The Eagles were defeated on the eve of their three-day convention here by the American Legion team, 7 to 2.

Hanlon, pitching for the Eagles, had seven strikeouts, but was given loose support by his teammates.

McIntyre had but three strikeouts, but walked no Eagle batters. Higgins of the Legion made three hits out of four trips to the plate.

MILLS, IRISH CHAMP, LOSES TO DONNELLY

Trenton, N. J., June 16.—Johnny Donnelly, Philadelphia lightweight, defeated Pat Mills, champion of Ireland, in ten rounds which had the fans on their toes. Donnelly had Mills holding on in the last round from hard rights to the jaw.

Buck Fleming, Philadelphia bantamweight, defeated Jack Marlow in the eight round semi-wind-up.

LAWRENCE DEFEATS DILBOY POST TEAM

Lawrence, June 16.—Dilboy Post of Somerville was defeated here tonight by the Lawrence Independents 7 to 2. Spaulding held the Somerville men to two hits and both runs scored by them were unearned.

O'Brien of Somerville struck out six to Spaulding's four. Good fielding by the Independents offset their seven errors that counted for the Dilboy Post's runs.

Arlmont Club Has Events

The Arlmont Golf Club is planning golf events over the club links, both this afternoon and on Monday.

On the holiday an all-day tournament will be played.

School Tennis Today

The Arlington High School boys' tennis team will play Gardner in Gardner this afternoon. Both singles and doubles matches will be staged.

BIG CROWD SEES LYNN SCHOOL REGATTA

Ten thousand people, the largest crowd to ever witness a rowing race on Lynn Harbor, lined the shore of the bay and watched Lynn Classical High in from its ancient rival, Lynn English, over the mile and a half course today.

It was the fourth victory the Classical shell had scored over the Red and Gray in as many years. By virtue of their win today, the Classical eight gained first leg on the Stand Cup donated by Albert Newhall, a devotee of the rowing game.

Classical's margin of victory was a length and a half.

Coach Dineen's lads were fortunate in drawing for position and won the inside course. A strong wind was blowing off shore, giving them an advantage over their opponents.

Both crews were off the mark at a 34 clip. There was hardly any difference as the shells passed the half way mark. The English crew hit up a faster stroke as the flag was passed and put their shell in the lead. English was leading by a full length at the three-quarter flag but was showing the effects of the hard gruelling.

Coxswain Frasser of Clasiscal was quick to take advantage of the opening and raced his eight into the lead which was bettered as the racers passed the finish mark.

The crews were boated as follows:

Classical—Gordon, stroke; Achoska, 7, Boyle 6, McGraw 5, Sesen 4, Russell 3, S. Balkus 2, Wrigley bow, Fraser cox.

English—Borzellors, stroke, Thibedau 7, Pacewicz 6, Marks 5, Heffernan 4, Robishard 3, Yokobosky 2, McMahon, bow, Young cox.

MALDEN TACKLES LYNN STARS

Manager Jim Flanagan of the Malden Club in the Greater Boston Twilight League has booked a game for this afternoon with the East Lynn All-Stars. This should give the Malden fans who turn out to Ferryway Green a brilliant matinee pastime, as the East Lynn outfit is being bossed by Walter Lonergan, former Red Sox infielder.

Jim Flanagan

Al Kroog or Robinson will work for the team from Shoe City, while either Frank Shea or Howard Queen will start on the hill for Malden.

ARLINGTON LOSES IN MYSTIC LEAGUE

The Arlington High School baseball team closed its season and lost its postponed Mystic Valley Interscholastic League fray to Winchester, 9 to 4.

Winchester scored three runs in the first, and Arlington made two in the fourth, and went into the lead in the sixth by one run.

However, the home club did not lead long, for in the sixth Winchester rallied and scored six runs.

McKendrick of Winchester smashed out a home run, which did not count as he failed to touch one of the bases.

MAHONEY POST TO PLAY MEDFORD TEAM

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock the Fulton street grounds will be the scene of a hotly contested battle between the James F. Mahoney Post 457, Veterans of Foreign Wars team and the Medford City Club of the Twilight League. The Mahoney Post Military Band of thirty-five pieces will be on hand.

Fred C. Lane to Pick All-Star School Nines Monday

The All-Scholastic season is here.

With league and sectional championships decided and school about to close, comes the time to select from among the many schoolboy base-ball stars, those whose work stamped them as the greatest players of the year, and award them positions on the honor nines.

In Monday's Boston American, Fred C. Lane, editor of schoolboy sports, will continue his practice of naming first and second All-Scholastic teams.

Every high school boy and girl, and every follower of high school sports should be interested in selections.

They can satisfy that interest by securing a copy of Monday's Boston American.

SAINTS BEATEN FOR FIRST TIME

The biggest surprise of the Twilight League was the downfall of the strong St. Andrew's A. A. of Jamaica Plain at the hands of the Malden nine on Ferryway Green. The Maldenites broke loose with all that was in them and pounded the delivery of Jim Shea for a 7 to 2 victory. They got ten hits.

It was a great night for the Malden folks.

Howard Queen, the slender right hand flinger of the Malden team, did the trick and held the Saints to six scattered hits. Great support was given the Malden twirler by the players of the winning aggregation.

Hamilton, the brilliant second sacker, turned in numerous difficult plays, while Gordon Urann stung them at the bat.

Dorchester turned back the Millstreams of Chelsea for the second time this week. The "boys in blue" got one run, but that was plenty enough to win.

Everett got back into the win column and laced the South Boston All Stars, 7 to 2. Doctor Saunders left his office and turned in a brilliant game.

MERCER CUBS READY FOR 12-YEAR TEAMS

The Mercer Cubs, fast amateur ball team from the Peninsula District, are in the field with a 12-13-year-old old team. Joseph Ashman, the manager, predicts a very good season for his aggregation. Home games will be played at the Columbus playgrounds in South Boston.

Joseph Ashman

Teams desiring games should write to Joseph Ashman, No. 67 Gates street, South Boston. Games preferred in and around Boston.

STAR BATTERY IS LOOKING FOR WORK

Al Powers and Bill Murphy, a star battery, formerly of the Canadian League, are now living in Boston. Any team desiring a fast battery for twilight, Saturday and Sunday games may call Roxbury 7072. They are not engaged for the holiday.

OARSMEN STAGE IMPORTANT TESTS

Red Top, Ct., June 16.—Only routine work this morning for the Harvard crews, all going down to the two and a half mile mark and paddling back, except the freshman eight who had a brisk row up stream for two miles, the last eighth mile raising the stroke to 34 to the minute and finished strong.

Each crew had several racing starts and the coaches are paying particular attention to this end of the rowing, as a good deal depends on the start, especially in the freshman race, as both Harvard and Yale yearlings are evenly matched and the crew that gets the jump and maintains the lead at the half mile is pretty certain to win, both crews being exceptionally powerful.

Examinations finished Friday and from now on entire attention can be paid to rowing. Assistant Dean Robert E. Bacon, who has been acting as proctor for the Harvard crews, left for Cambridge and the camp is now on standard time. It was necessary to be on daylight until today so it would agree with Cambridge class day.

Great excitement was caused in the camp late last night when Sheridan Logan, manager of the crew, and Jom Manning, the boat rigger, brought a huge turtle measuring a foot and a half lengthwise. It was estimated to be 150 years old by natives of the town. It was released this morning after it had snapped its stake off.

This afternoon Coaches Muller and Haines, Manager Logan, Captain Ladd of the Harvard camp, Captain Pelly, Manager Houk, coach leader of Yale, and F. V. Chappell of the rowing regatta committee went over the course and gave it their final O. K.

Today will be busy and hard for the crews, as if conditions are anywhere right their final time trials will be held, the second crew and the freshmen holding theirs in the forenoon and the varsity theirs at 6 o'clock down stream.

Sunday Game at Chelsea

The Millstreams will play Pere Marquette at Merrill Park, Chelsea, on Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

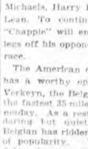
CHAPMAN WILL SHOW SPEED AT REVERE

Tonight promises to be one of the biggest ever at the Revere cycle track. The champions in their respective divisions will make their first appearance of the year. Foremost is the debut of George Chapman, three time winner and present holder of the American paced championship in the 35 mile race.



Last season "Chappie" had a great following among the Revere patrons. In fact his brilliant racing made him in the eyes of the railbirds as great an idol as the late Jimmy Michaels, Harry Elks or Hugh MacLean. To continue his popularity "Chappie" will endeavor to ride the legs off his opponents in his opening race.

The American champ will find he has a worthy opponent in Charley Verkeyn, the Belgian flyer, who rode the fastest 35 miles of the year Wednesday. As a result of this win, the daring but quiet and unassuming Belgian has ridden into an avalanche of popularity. Verkeyn never indulges in any weary waiting in his races. He goes out after his opponents from the gun, constantly fighting to "go by" and never content to ride in the trailing position.

Frankie Keenan, the youthful Revereite, who has won the majority of his races this season, and the veteran, George Wiley, complete the field. Keenan hopes to continue his excellent riding in his home town. Wiley, with the coming of warmer weather, has loosened up his old thighs and regained the form that made him king of the engine chasers.

The second champion to display his ankling is Frank Cavanaugh, New England sprint champion, and the largest biker on the American tracks. Opposed to the husky Celt will be "Sailor Jim" Cobert. They will race on the heat plan, best two out of three.

ORIOLES LOOK FOR GAME FOR SUNDAY

The Orioles of South Boston, a fast eighteen-year-old team are without a game for Sunday, due to a cancellation, and would like to play away from home. Games for Sundays for the remainder of the season are wanted. Phone D. Kiley, Main 2853, during the day.

MACK'S BOXERS TO BE BUSY IN RING

Three boxers of the Eddie Mack stable will go to the post seven times in 15 days shortly. Johnny Clinton, lightweight, will start the ball rolling on the night of June 20 with Bert Spencer of Brooklyn for 12 rounds. This match was scheduled for the 15th, but on account of the Villa-Wilde battle, the matchmaker of the Broadway Exhibition Association of Brooklyn put it over until the 20th.

On the night of June 21st, Abe Friedman, the New England bantamweight champion, will go over the hurdles with Larry Goldberg, the crack bantam of New York City, for 12 rounds, at the Kingsboro A. C. of Brooklyn. Friedman and Goldberg top the card of a big all star show there next Thursday night, June 21st.

Willie Harmon will try and tame Wildman Gould at the ball park in Woonsocket on the night of June 22. They will throw punches at each other for twelve rounds.

June 25th at the ball park in Philadelphia Johnny Clinton will try and annex a win over Basil Galiano of New Orleans in eight rounds. Galiano is the boy that just won over Paul Moran and Johnny Dundee.

The Kingsboro A. C. of Brooklyn, the big open air club, has signed Clinton to box Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia or Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee for twelve rounds on the night of June 28.

On the Fourth of July afternoon Abe Friedman will top a big all-star card at Holyoke in the afternoon at the ball park there. He will go over the ten-round route with Lew Hurley, the new sensation in the bantamweight ranks in New York City. This show will be staged by the Holyoke Elks for the crippled children of Holyoke. After Clinton, Friedman and Harmon have fulfilled those engagements they will rest up for a couple of weeks and then will be ready to tour the country again.

PICK YALE TO BEAT HARVARD

New Haven, Ct., June 16.—The first athletic event on Yale commencement program takes place this afternoon when on the new running track at Yale Field, the track and field athletes of Yale and its traditional rival, Harvard, meet in their annual tests.

The Elis, who followed their dual meet victory over Princeton with a remarkably fine showing in the big intercollegiate games at Philadelphia, rule the favorite, and although Harvard's men may perform in unexpected fashion, a Yale triumph by a sizeable margin seems the probable outcome.

The Yale team boast a brave array of sprinters, able quarter-milers, half-milers and distance [illegible], fair hurdlers, intercollegiate champions in the broad jump [illegible] throw, an excellent pole vault [illegible] other field event entries with better than average records in the events.

HARVARD WEAK IN SPRINTS AND THE FIELD EVENTS.

Harvard is weak in the sprints, and in several of the field events, only fair in the hurdles, and in those contests where the Crimson has really first class representatives it will encounter the stiffest opposition and will be fortunate if it scores six of the fifteen first places and a dozen of the seconds and thirds.

Because of Harvard's weakness in several of the events close competition is anticipated in less than half the contests on the program.

Captain Billie Burke of Harvard, in his attempt to down Mal Douglas in the mile and Tommy Campbell in the half mile, in both of which events he was declared the victor last year, is boked to furnish whatever track thrills that will develop.

But the Crimson leader must to better than he did at the intercollegiate meet if he is to close his career in a blaze of glory, for in that meet he was shut out in both races, whereas his Yale rivals of today scored places.

Stirring engagements are expected when Marshall of Harvard and Cruickshank of Yale meet in the hammer throw; when Jordan of Yale and Eastman of Harvard clash in the shotput, and when the rival fields of hurdlers engage in the timber-topping numbers.

At least two dual meet records are threatened today, for Stors of Yale already has outdistanced by many feet the dual meet mark in the javelin throw, and Comins, the intercollegiate broad jump champion, may better the dual meet broad jump mark set by Ned Gourdin.

SAINT PETER AND PAULS BEAT STARS

The Sts. Peter and Paul nine of South Boston annexed its eleventh victory when it defeated the West End All-Stars by the score of 5 to 4 at the Christopher J. Lee Playground. It was one of the best games played at the park this year. The "Saints" won in the last inning when they scored three runs. Gould started on the mound for the Saints but four runs in the first inning sent him to the showers in favor of Walter McDonough, who allowed only one scratch hit and struck out twelve, and also hit a timely single. With three on in the final inning Captain "Steve" McDonough broke up the game with a double that cleared the sacks. The feature of the game was a running one-hand catch in deep centre by Sarva of the All-Stars.

Oils Make Fresh Lows for Year in Irregular Market With Changes Small

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

At last prison doors will shortly close behind swindlers who ran bucket shops and took millions of dollars from the public. Both Fuller and McGee, who took six million dollars from the unwary, should receive, when they come up for sentence on Tuesday, the maximum term of imprisonment allowed under the law.

Other bucketeers should quickly join the procession prisonwards. The opening of a bucketshop had come to be regarded as the easiest and safest way of robbing the public of millions. This notion should be stamped out. It can be stamped out if the courts do their duty.

Should the Consolidated Stock Exchange in New York be abolished?

Recent revelations suggest that it should. Manifestly, it has not been run with proper regard for the interests of the public. Recent developments demonstrate that its methods were lamentably lax.

If properly run, a case might be made out justifying the existence of this institution. Its continued existence cannot be defended if it is not run better in future than it has been run in the recent past.

The stock market does not seem to want to go down.

Beware of too much "system." "System" can be carried to such lengths that it leaves little time for profits. I know of certain organizations that spend an excessive amount of money allocating each item of cost, without stopping to consider that the net profits would be greater if half of this money were saved. Where expenses come out of one central pocket, is it not a mistake to spend endless sums in allocating the expenses to the nth point?

System and cost accounting have their place in business. But they must not be allowed to become the whole of the business, or that business will shrivel up.

A reader, commenting on my talk to the bankers' conference at Atlantic City, in which I urged bankers to do more to educate the public on the A. B. C. of business, economics and finance, asks: "But who are to educate the bankers and the brokers? Most of them need educating themselves, especially along ethical lines."

Well, no one profession, no one class has a monopoly of education or wisdom. I do believe, however, that bankers, taking them as a class, know more about how business ought to be run than any other class in America.

Also, I would go this far! There is as much honorable dealing, and as little dishonorable dealing, by the bankers of this country as there is in the operation of any other class of business men.

At that, this reader is not entirely wrong when he proceeds to criticize and condemn some of the financial ongoings in Wall street. Conditions are much clearer than they used to be. There is still room for improvement.

"He is more interested in speculating in the stock market than he is in building up a business," emphatically declared one man yesterday, in discussing one of the prominent tobacco leaders. "If he would only leave the stock market alone, he could become one of the biggest men in his line."

The directorates of our largest corporations today prefer as the leading executives men who leave the stock market alone; men of the James A. Farrell type.

Business is showing more resiliency than pessimists had predicted.

$100,000,000 INCREASE FOR N. Y. CENTRAL

Sinclair Oil, Middle States Oil and Mexican Seaboard certificates set new 1923 lows in week-end trading on the New York Stock Exchange, as did also Hupp Motor, in an irregular market in which changes were mostly small.

New York Central was firm. It was announced Central has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to issue $100,000,000 of new capital stock. Stock will be exchanged from time to time for a like amount of carrier's 20-year 6 per cent. convertible gold debenture bonds of 1915 now outstanding in hands of public.

Davison Chemical was active and up better than a point on news silica-gel process contract with Pan-American near consummation. California Petroleum was lively and up a point.

Du Pont yielded around 3 points and General Asphalt nearly 2. Mexican Seaboard was off over a point.

Announcement of the failure of one of the most active houses in the field of oil securities afforded an explanation for part of the recent selling of stocks of this class and relieved the apprehension prevailing in the speculative community that something was overhanging the market.

Stocks showed a decidedly better tone when the news was made public. California Petroleum, American Can, Studebaker and other industrial leaders scored fair recoveries, while rails continued to display a confident front.

U. S. Bonds Gain; New Haven 7s Up a Point

Better tone for active U. S. government issues was apparent in week-end trading in bonds, gains ranging from 1.42 to 4.32 of a point.

A gain of 1 by Montevidean 7s was the only outstanding change among the foreign bonds.

Railroad mortgages were active but price changes generally were small. New Haven 7s moved up a point.

Dery 7s continued their advance, gaining 1½ points and American Telephone & Telegraph 6s dropped a point.

Wall St. Gossip

Boston Notes

NAUMKEAG Steam Cotton Company of Salem has declared regular semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. and extra 5 per cent., payable to stock of record June 15.

MOVEMENT of loaded cars on Pennsylvania System for the week ended June 9 was 177,084 cars, compared with 169,639 in preceding week.

AGAINST net earnings in first quarter of 1923 of $460,209 and $197,820 in last quarter of 1922, International Cement in quarter ending last of this month should earn over $600,000.

GREENFIELD will receive proposals until June 22 for purchase of $120,000 of various 4¼ per cent. bonds, maturing 1924 to 1943 inclusive.

COUNTY of Essex will receive bids until June 26 for $100,000 of 4½ per cent. coupon loan notes, payable 1924 to 1926 inclusive.

ISLAND Creek Coal's profits in 1922 were $26 a share, of which 84 per cent. was distributed in dividends.

MASSACHUSETTS Gas earnings for remainder of year will be "velvet" on $25,000,000 common stock, as first third's earnings covered general expenses, interest charges and preferred dividends.

GORTON-Pew Fisheries net sales for year ended March 31 were $2,418,525, as compared with $2,909,084 in previous fiscal twelvemonth.

NEW construction at Old Dominion's milling plant, to increase capacity to 1,000 tons of ore a day, is virtually completed.

Replies to Investors

(Send inquiries on investments to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass. Enclose stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.)

To R. E. B., Hyde Park—Condensed analysis you request follows: H. & B. American Machine Co.—Inc. in Maine. Plant is at Pawtucket, R. I. Builders of textile machinery. Capital stock $2,400.00 6 per cent. pfd. and $1,200,000 common. Dividends on pfd. stock payable semi-annually January and July 1. Present rate on common stock 12 per cent. Surplus December 31, 1922, $3,555,356. Profits for year ending December 31, 1922, after allowance for depreciation, etc., were $825,859.42.

PHILADELPHIA & READING.

To R. C. A., Boston street—I have the conviction that the speculative possibilities of most railroads are being over-emphasized in many quarters.

Philadelphia & Reading Railway Co. reports for 1922 a balance after total deductions, including appropriation for investment in physical property, etc., of $6,035,901, equal to 14.20 per cent. on the $42,481,700 capital stock outstanding. This compares with $3,358,632, or 7.97 per cent., in 1921. After payment of dividends last year there was a deficit of $336,354, as compared with a deficit of $2,348,337 in the proceeding year.

On December 31, 1922, the profit and loss credit balance was 7,403,888, after the addition of miscellaneous adjustments of $1,112,196. On December 31, 1921, the profit and loss surplus amounted to $4,528,046, after deducting miscellaneous adjustments of $3,136,731. At the end of last year current assets totaled $26,896,994, and current liabilities $12,660,85, leaving net working capital of $14,235,189.

Included in current assets are miscellaneous accounts receivable of $10,519,785, against $19,077,811; cash $3,679,900, against $1,858,899; materials and supplies $7,66,226, against $7,449,833. The principal items in current liabilities are audited accounts and wages payable of $7,448,143, against $5,654,680; miscellaneous accounts payablbe $426,935, against $2,539,797.

During the fiscal year ended December 31, last, the sum of $1,845,449, was expended in additions and betterments, as compared with $3,084,584 in the previous fiscal year.

CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM.

To M. S., Cambridge.—One story I hear is to the effect that the drop in oil share prices has been engineered to avert proposed investigation by so-called "farm bloc."

California Petroleum in first quarter of 1923 shows a balance after depreciation, depletion, taxes, etc., of $2,292,361, equal to $7.54 a share on the $30,366,531 preferred and common stock combined. This compares with net income in the corresponding period of 1922 to $571,569 and a balance after preferred dividend of $394,095, equal to $2.64 a share on the $14,877,005 common stock. As of March 31, last, the profit and loss surplus stood at $7,872,798, against $3,709,392, as of March 31, 1922.

UNITED SHOE IS AT NEW HIGH ON MOVE

In week-end trading on the Boston Stock Exchange United Shoe opened up ⅜ at 33¼, then sold at 34¾, highest since selling ex-dividend 40 per cent. stock bonus.

Ahmeek was off 1½ at 66½ and Boston & Maine Class A down 1¼ at 23.

New England Telephone advanced 1½ at 115.

Issues fractionally lower included Boston & Maine, New Haven, Quincy, U. S. Smelting, Waldorf and Warren Bros.

Among stocks that sold slightly up were American Telephone, Massachusetts Gas, Greenfield Tap & Die North Butte, Utah-Apex and Hardy Coal.

Leather and shoe trade continues dull. Cold weather lasting well into Spring caused buying demand, which usually takes a spurt early in the second quarter, to remain slow. The industry has not recovered from effects of this, but indications of improved business are not lacking.

Retailers, first to note changes in demand, report increased activity. This is especially noticeable in the Middle West, where warm weather has brought a decded rise in sales. In and around automobile manufacturing districts, which are experiencing almost unequalled boom times, shoes are selling as fast as they are shipped in.

This is extending to midwestern factories, which have received increased orders from salesmen, and a greater number of orders for Fall lines.

Manufacturers are marking time, waiting for definite developments. A few are starting on their Fall run, but the majority have not felt returning demand yet.

There is little doubt the industry will pick up in the third quarter.

LOWER PRICES RULE MARKETS FOR WEEK

Falling prices and irregular developments featured not only the stock markets for the past week, but also a number of the important commodity markets, including cotton, grain, sugar and foodstuffs.

The most notable exceptions were copper and investment bonds, which continued the forward movement of the previous week.

The stock market failed to "follow through" with the mild boom in railroad shares which seemed to be budding in the last three sessions of the week.

This was not due to any shortcomings on the part of the railroad companies or the general traffic business of the country. The New York Central directors bettered expectations by advancing the dividend rate to 7 per cent., adding a glowing comment on the financial condition of the road and its future prospects.

Allowing for the holiday, carloadings established another top notch record and reports of freight cars in service were uniformly favorable. But none of these factors seemed to carry much weight in the movements of railroad stocks.

The public had little interest in them as in other sections of the speculative list; and the professionals, following out their policy of "selling on the rallies," flooded the market with selling orders and prices were again turned downward.

Statisticians report all of the advance in prices scored in the first week of June has been wiped out by the decline which, for the industrials started about the middle of last week, and for the rails, on Monday of this week.

Old Age on Knees Scrubbing

Do You Think That Any SURFACE Reforms Will Straighten Those Tired Old Backs and Give the Workers Relief?

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

At 4 o'clock in the morning the elevator moves only rarely in the big office building. A few late workers go about, preparing to end a long day.

At this hour the elevator stops and delivers to her work an old woman past sixty.

She wears a heavy black veil, a plain black dress. Her shoulders are bent and her face tired.

She removes her bonnet and her veil, puts a scrubbing skirt over her black dress.

Then gets her pail, soap and brush.

For many hours, while others are sleeping, and later as the sun is rising, SHE IS ON HER KNEES SCRUBBING.

She goes home in time to get a late breakfast for some children that she is taking care of.

She sleeps just as few hours as she can, then works through the day, without pay, waiting for the hour when she must work, through the most dismal, lonesome hours of the night, for the smallest wage that an old, defenceless woman can be made to accept.

While this old woman scrubs on her knees high up in the office building, an older woman sits on a little stool on the cold corner of the street below selling newspapers.

This old woman in the street is bent almost double. A thin shawl covers her back.

She stoops so much that when you buy a newspaper from her, or put your hand upon her shoulder and give her enough money to take her off the street, she must turn her head sideways to look up and see who it is.

If that old woman with the black veil, coming every morning to scrub, were AN OLD SOLDIER IN HIS UNIFORM—WHAT INDIGNATION WOULD BE AROUSED!

Everybody would say: "It is dreadful that an old soldier should be forced, at that age, to go down on his knees and scrub."

Well, is it not MORE dreadful that an old woman should be submitted to hardship and hard labor that would seem cruelty to a man?

Is not the black bonnet and the black veil of the scrubwoman just as truly the uniform of a brave soldier as any uniform in the world?

That woman has borne children. She has suffered for hours as the soldier suffers only for minutes.

She has worried over sickbeds, put children in their graves, worked for a family and for a husband; put the husband in his grave—giving her pitiful savings in the effort to express loyalty through the undertaker.

Does SHE not deserve respect, or pity, at the very least? Is it not worse to see her in the cold Winter morning going to her work at 3 o'clock, and scrubbing on her knees for hours, wretchedly paid, receiving for this painful labor barely enough money to keep the roof over her head?

And that old, bent woman on the street, with the hands wrinkled and yellow, is not her life a dreadful reflection upon the heartlessness of what we call civilization?

You may say that charity would take care of her. But she knows only too well that your charity is colder than the wind that blows around her street corner in February.

She would rather stand there, with an occasional kind word from some man or woman who treats her as a human being, than to live on your CHARITY, ticketed, labelled, like some piece of human furniture that can do nothing more except to oblige the community by dying.

It is easy to help either one of these two women, or both of them.

But what are you going to do FOR THE THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF OTHERS AS BADLY OFF OR WORSE OFF?

You cannot say to them: "You shall not earn your living in that way," unless you are prepared to give them a better living of another kind.

If you give them money today, that does not provide for the years that stretch ahead. AND THEY DO NOT DARE GIVE UP THE DAILY CERTAINTY, WITH ITS HARD LABOR.

These two old women present one of the real problems, ONE OF THE DEEP PROBLEMS.

The world has a great deal of work to do before it will be able to treat these women, and the millions of other unfortunate human beings just as unfortunate, as they should be treated.

Our children must be better educated and better opportunities must be given to them.

The savings of the poor must be protected against the vampires that prey upon them through the life insurance companies and the other companies upon which our enormous fortunes and our horrible poverty are based.

The intelligence of men must solve THE RENT PROBLEM, as it has solved other problems.

The intelligence of mankind which enables the prosperous to cross the ocean in a floating palace at a cost that is almost nominal to the rich man must enable this old woman, with her bent back and hard life, at least to have a decent shelter and decent food without grinding out her last spark of vitality in the effort to get them.

The trouble with this world is that its laws are made, its plans are made, its battles are fought BY THE POWERFUL.

There are any number of us busy trying to make the well-to-do still better off—trying to give four dollars a day to the three dollar man.

But in the councils where laws are made, and in the fields where the battles are fought, THE VOICES OF THESE TWO OLD WOMEN ARE NOT HEARD.

Their bent forms do not appear in Congress when "the statesmen" are trying to realize their ideals.

Even in the churches, they come humble, bent and unnoticed, as they come to their work in the darkness of the night.

Before these old women and the thousands of others that are unfortunate—whether old or young—can be helped, there must be more real sympathy in the minds of men for those whom they do not see or talk to.

There must be a revival of that sympathy for the poor which is in all the teachings of Jesus Christ.

THOSE TEACHINGS MUST BE TAKEN SERIOUSLY, and when they are taken seriously, when intelligence and power and wealth are behind the effort to realize them, these two poor old women and those that shall follow them—that are waiting eagerly, even now, to fill their places—will have decent lives, peace and the respect that should go to unfortunate old age.

BERNHARDT HOUSE A SHRINE

PARIS, June 16.—The house in which Sarah Bernhardt lived and died has become a shrine for American lovers of the art of the great French actress. Sightseeing buses now include Boulevarde Periere in their itineraries, and upon approaching No. 53 the guides call out in hushed voices, "That is where the 'Divine Sarah' breathed her last."

Madame Bernhardt's simple tomb in the Cemetery Pere Lachaise also is visited daily by scores of former admirers of the actress. Never once since her body was placed there has the tomb been devoid of fresh flowers.

Leviathan Inspection

Editor Boston American:

Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the United States government officials to invite the public (without invitation) to inspect the Leviathan? Every school child in Greater Boston should know what a great ocean liner is by actual contact. What better way could be chosen to popularize our great steamships than in this manner? Many persons who would inspect the ship would undoubtedly decide to take a voyage on her. Spreading of open ship over a week or so would prevent a rush at any one time. H. K.

Noisy Bombs

Editor Boston American:

Why will city officials continue to permit the explosion of heavy bombs at fireworks displays such as occurred last Thursday evening on Boston Common? When I heard those terrible explosions at a point four miles away, I thought of the thousands of sick persons in nearby West End hospitals to whom sleep meant so much. I also thought of how consistent the city officials ARE NOT when they place signs near hospitals requesting motorists NOT to blow horns. I say that such abominable noises are a plain outrage. J. W.

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls. No Names Are Published.

Mother of Five

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there any kind reader who can help me and my five little children, two boys, eleven and six, and two girls, nine and three and a half, and a baby four weeks old? When baby was born I had nothing to wrap her in but a towel until some kind lady picked up a few things. I have had a slight touch of pneumonia since she was born, and my youngest boy was injured by an auto truck. Doctor's bills, and the fact that after a long period of unemployment my husband is now getting only $21 a week, has put us in the hole. Seven of us try to live in two beds. I would deeply appreciate any clothes or bassinette for the baby, or a bed and old bed clothes if anyone had one to give away.

MRS. M. P.

Wants Yellow Kitten

Editor Helping Hand:

Having lost a beautiful yellow cat, I would like you to ask the kind readers if any of them have a deep yellow or yellow and white male kitten that they would give me to fill the vacancy. I will be very grateful. F. A. H.

Offers More Help

Editor Helping Hand:

Thank you for all the addresses you sent me. Have received two nice letters from two people to whom I sent bundles. I would like now the address of B. K., who asked for magazines, and Mrs. R. B. 3., as I have some things that could be made over for the children. What a wonderful thing your column is! It gives people a chance to help the needy one. Some of the cases are so pitiful it makes one wish they could help them all. I have a light-weight overcoat for a small man and two pairs of low shoes, size 7½ and 8.

MRS. A. O.

You have surely been a very consistent helper and we think you have done wonders yourself. The two addresses you mention have been sent you. The overcoat and shoes will be held for replies. Thank you.

Man and Wife in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has tuberculosis and the doctor told him not to work at all. He does work most of the time, for he has to. He did not work much last Winter, and I was sick nearly all Winter with bronchial asthma. I would like to know if any of the kind ladies have a dress or suit they would give me, as I have no Summer dress to go out in, or enough underclothing. I wear size 40. My husband, who takes size 38, and my boy, who takes size seven years, are also much in need of clothes. Medicine and doctor's bills take so much that it is hard just to get enough to buy food with.

MRS. K. F.

Many Things to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have ready the following articles: Two white flannel dresses for a seven or eight-year-old girl; a girl's petticoat, same age; brown shoes, size 4½; boy's velvet hat, age three or four; a pop-over toy; boy's Summer suit, age four or five, and a number of things for a baby from birth to one year. Some fine 15½ soft white collars, a few size fifteen collars.

MRS. D. F.

Thank you. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs. J. L., who has a boy four and girl eight, and of Mrs. D. D., who has a young baby.

Gives Shirtwaists

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of someone who can use some shirtwaists, size 34?

MRS. P. H. B.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. B. P., who states that she and who is in need of clothing.

For a One-Year-Old

Editor Helping Hand:

I have clothes, including rompers, coats, hats, shoes, etc., for a little girl about a year or a year and a half old; also some suits, shoes, etc., for a boy about two years old. Will you kindly send me the name and address of someone who could use them?

MRS. E. M. C.

Thank you. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs A. O'B., who has a girl a year old, and of Mrs. H. K., who has a boy two.

Offers Plush Couch

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a plush couch that is in fair condition that I will give to some needy family who can see to moving it (Boston).

MRS. A. P. G.

Thank you. Your offer will be held for replies.

Thanks to Mrs. M. G.

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to write just a few words to thank you for your interest in my appeal. I received a lovely package from Mrs. M. G. of Mattapan. She sent a lot of nice little dresses, a coat, and some underclothing for a little girl. These came in handy for two of my girls who are nearly the same age.

HUNDRED THOUSAND "SCRAPS OF PAPER" FOR A DOLLAR

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

THE woman who just got a verdict of $35,000, eleven years after filing suit, can thank her lucky stars that the case wasn't brought against some Berlin firm for a similar amount.

If a German court had rendered the decision she would have received exactly one dollar.

Holders of long-term notes yonder find a new and bitter significance in "scraps of paper." The way of the transgressor is especially hard along the Rhine.

An American penny will buy a thousand marks today. Money as well as men fall on the battlefields.

Mars is nobody's friend. The bloody scoundrel pillages on both sides of the line.

In the light of recent events two things are certain: Victors can't repair their losses from enemy pockets and defeated folk are in for worse drubbings than they bargain for.

Nietzsche and Bernhardi are not found financial counsellors.

There's a poorhouse as well as a palace at the end of every military road, as Poincare will learn before he's out of the Ruhr.

Revenge is also a bankrupting adviser.

Trembling in Their Boots

Fuller and McGee plead guilty to bucketing. Unnamed higher-ups and lower-downs of Wall Street's underworld tremble in their boots. If these young joy-riders ever tell how lambs are slaughtered in the long green pastures you're apt to witness a wolf hunt that will go down in "market" history.

Speculation at its best is a risky business. Look at Thomas Lawson, once worth $30,000,000, and now deadbroke. Remember Sully, cotton king, and stripped to the bones within a single week. And old Hutch, who fixed the price of bread, then lived to beg for it.

Put your savings in bonds and mortgages or keep them earning 4 per cent. at the bank.

And if you must take a flier, confer with some conservative and successful business acquaintance, have him choose a broker, and investigate his record before you deal.

Buy outright. Sell when you have a profit. Even at that you're likely to lose.

Amateurs can't hope to beat trained experts at their own intricate game.

The best place to replant a dollar is where it was raised.

Celluloid Turns Green With Envy

Joseph Conrad left too soon. Hardly does he sail for home than a plot to delight his heart drifts into New York harbor.

Violence is no novelty to Manhattan. Dagger, pistol and blackjack take daily toll from Queens to Bronx. Children are kidnaped, girls abducted, the Hudson washes its daily unknown ashore, highway robbers and motor bandits pull off their regular stunts—and blase news devotes casual paragraphs to their doings.

But here's a tale for scream heads. No yellowback ever launched craft on the seas of fancy to encounter stranger fate than "The Mary Beatrice."

A little thirty-foot sponger crowds twenty Chinamen in its hold and undertakes to slip them into the United States.

A cog slips somewhere, expected confederates fail to appear. The captain, with $5,000 in half-paid fares, abandons the schooner—the crew decides to slay and rob its human contraband.

Knives flash and axes fall; throats are cut and heads split. Nine corpses float somewhere in the Atlantic, and fifteen yellow men, hacked and bleeding, are found weltering, but alive, on the drifting barque.

Celluloid turns green with envy. Fact is still the best scenarist.

Some Scores Are Never Posted.

Some readers, however, will find more thrills in Whitcombe's score of seventy in the British open golf championship.

Walter Hagen is bested by four in the opening rounds at Troon.

Who'd ever think that a little white ball knocked about a field would take cable precedence over the crash of governments and the quarrels of Europe!

Or believe that a golf game is of greater interest than the disclosure of a train wreck in which three hundred and fifty Poilus were killed.

It happened in 1917. A wild engine plunges down a mountainside, airbrakes refuse to hold, cars catch fire and the train crashes into a bridge at St. Michael-en-Maurinne.

Censor judged it expedient to keep the affair secret until now. France builds a monument to the victims, and that's why we chance at this late day to hear about it.

How many more war tragedies are buried in bureaucracy files? If only secret archives had tongues!

"What Fools These Mortals Be!"

Moses Lauterback prefers a Kansas prison to freedom in California.

Convicted of assault, the State Parole Board suspended his penitentiary sentence with the understanding that he would stay on the coast. Now he's back begging for his cell. The climate didn't suit him.

A shriek of incredulity rings from Shasta to San Diego and echoes through the continent. He didn't like the climate! Ancient gods are reputed to have struck mortals dead for lesser impieties.

Wasters are oftener made than born. Indulgent parents, spendthrift sons. Wisdom teeth aren't cut on golden spoons. Various axioms, inspired by a mother's application for a $48,000 allowance from an inherited estate, to rear four youngsters, some of them not yet out of knee breeches.

The lady insists that they can't be maintained in proper style on less.

Shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves in three generations! Behold the reason.

A boy who gets everything at the start is seldom found among the finishers. We learn values through longings. Surfeit dulls appetite and ambition alike.

The wise fairies always brought wishing rings.
